

Russia Ready To Use Force If Redress Is Not Obtained

May Take Own Measures
Against 'Sea Pirates,'
Paper Says
REPEATS CHARGES

British, French Ships
Rush to Scene of Naval Battle

Algiers, Algeria.—(P)—A Spanish government fleet of two cruisers and five trawlers steamed in battle array in the western Mediterranean today to engage an insurgent warship and try to keep the sealanes clear for supply ships bound for the government coast.

Heavy cannonade off Tenes preceded reports of conflict between the government fleet and the insurgent cruiser Canarias.

Just before the battle, the Canarias had forced two Spanish government freighters ashore in one of the newest incidents of Mediterranean attacks on merchant vessels.

Moscow.—(P)—The red army's official newspaper served notice today that the soviet government will use force "to call Italian sea pirates to their responsibility" if peaceful moves fail.

The newspaper Red Star declared the soviet government was determined to obtain redress from Italy for the sinking of two soviet ships "which the government attributed to Italian submarines."

It Friday's proposed conference of Mediterranean powers fails to obtain that redress, the Red Star said, soviet Russia will use its own means.

The newspaper attacked Italian Premier Mussolini for "trying to create a new Roman empire."

It declared the soviet government "will find the necessary means for calling sea pirates to their responsibility and forcing them to fulfill legal demands" of Moscow.

The soviet government agrees to discuss any collective measure which would end the intolerable situation in the Mediterranean, the newspaper said.

But it added that Moscow "will insist that Italy satisfy all (the soviet government's) just demands."

London.—(P)—Three British destroyers and three French warships sped today to the scene of a Mediterranean naval battle between Spanish insurgent and Spanish government ships.

The order sending British warships to the area came just as the British cabinet adjourned for lunch after a "crisis" meeting in the midst of an alarming rift between Italy and soviet Russia over charges of "piracy" in the Mediterranean.

The British destroyers were ordered to the battle scene, off Tenes, west of Algiers, by the naval commander at Gibraltar.

The admiralty in London did not explain the move, but other sources said the ships were ordered to patrol the area "so as to be near possible trouble."

Two French torpedo boats and the French destroyer L'Albatros put out from Algiers to the vicinity of the engagement.

Russian Message
The Soviet Union dispatched another bitter message to Italy today and widened the already alarming rift between Europe's great communist and fascist states.

In a stern, unyielding mood, Moscow instructed her embassy in Rome to tell Italy that the fascist reply to a soviet note charging Italian submarines with sinking two Russian freighters was "entirely unacceptable." Russia insisted repeated the accusations which Italy had angrily rejected.

At the same time Moscow demanded in effect that the Anglo-French sponsored Mediterranean

Michigan Man Killed In Fall Under Train

Hancock, Mich.—(P)—John Barkkila, 35, was killed yesterday when he stumbled and fell under the wheels of a slowly moving switch engine. Coroner John McCarthy said an inquest would be held.

Sea Raids Alarm Secretary of State

Washington.—(P)—Secretary Hull characterized the activity of unidentified raiders in the Mediterranean today as a promiscuous situation growing gradually more acute.

He said he had discussed it with Chairman Kennedy of the maritime commission.

Officials emphasized, however, that the state department has not broadcast any general warning to American shipping to stay out of that area.

Announcing at his press conference that he had discussed the situation with Kennedy about two weeks ago, Hull said everybody knows there is danger in the Mediterranean at present. He did not reveal conclusions he and Kennedy may have reached concerning measures to safeguard American shipping. State department officials insisted that the department itself has taken no action in this regard.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS AT CHURCH MEET

Shown in a typical speaking pose is Governor Philip LaFollette, above, as he gave an address before the itinerants' dinner of the Wisconsin conference of the First Methodist Episcopal church last night at the Methodist Episcopal church. Collective Action Needed in Nation, LaFollette Says

Tells Methodists Problems
Can't be Met on Individualistic Basis

Pleading for the help, guidance and prayer of the clergy to solve current problems, Governor Philip F. LaFollette in a talk last night at the Wisconsin conference of the Methodist Episcopal church said they can no longer be met on an individualistic basis but only by collective action.

He addressed about 200 persons at the itinerants' banquet which marked the opening day of the ninety-first session of the conference at the Methodist Episcopal church.

"America must realize that we must stand face and solve these problems where we live," he said in pointing to the changes in the history of the country.

Dependent on Others
"Years ago," he continued, "each family was an economic island. It was a world in which each group was dependent on the thrift of that individual family. You have moved from the world where you can work alone to one where you must work together. You are physically and spiritually dependent on each other."

The people must realize that these changes are inevitable and must concentrate their energy to

Milwaukee Fireman Is Electrocuted on Farm

Farmville, Wis.—(P)—Walter Oesterreich, 41, Milwaukee fireman, was electrocuted as he picked crab apples at the farm of a friend near here last night.

Coroner Martin E. Fromm of Waukesha county said Oesterreich had evidently slipped and fallen against a high tension wire which passed through the tree.

Oesterreich's body was lowered to the ground 45 minutes later when the current was shut off.

Roosevelt Takes His Friends on Excursion

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(P)—President Roosevelt and a score of neighbors and relatives left Poughkeepsie today on a six-hour excursion on the upper Hudson river aboard the U. S. S. Potomac.

Before embarking the president received Irwin Steingut, of Brooklyn at the summer White House.

"It was purely a social call," Steingut said afterward.

He said he dropped in to pay his respects as an old friend and did not discuss politics because that was not his function on such occasions as this.

In response to a question, how- ever, he said he was "100 per cent for Mahoney" in the New York mayoral race. Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, former head of the Amateur Athletic union, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for mayor of New York city in the September primary.

Engineer Dies in Train Derailment

Five Others are Injured
In Smashup on Curve
Near Fort Wayne, Ind.

Fort Wayne, Ind.—(P)—Derailment of a Walcott railroad train, bound for St. Louis, from Detroit with 200 passengers, on a curve near here left one dead and five injured, one critically, today.

Dozens of other persons were cut and bruised, but their injuries did not require hospital treatment.

David Karlof, 65, Detroit, engineer, was killed when the locomotive plunged into a ditch, dragging five cars off the tracks. Two Pullman remained on the tracks.

The cars came to rest in various positions. More than 500 feet of track was torn up, and railroad men said traffic could not be resumed for several hours.

The crash occurred at New Haven late last night, and approximately 2,000 spectators gathered quickly at the scene.

Those hurt were Robert E. Miller, 39, Detroit, fireman, fractured skull; condition critical; Louis Proulx, 40, Detroit, severe chest injuries; Ora Jacobson, 33, Ferus Falls, Minn., a transient, severe lacerations and bruises; Clayton E. Brosher, 43, Fort Wayne mail clerk, possible fractured skull; and Ralph Hoffman, 34, Fort Wayne, head injuries and severe bruises.

Utility Employees' Union To Appeal Board Ruling

Milwaukee.—(P)—The Union of Public Utility Employees, Wisconsin's largest independent union, voted last night to appeal a state labor board ruling denying it registration as a legitimate labor union.

Officials claim the union includes up to 1,700 paid members, most of whom work for the electric company. Others are employed at the gas light company and a few at the Wisconsin Telephone company.

An A. F. of L. union at the electric company at a CIO union at the gas company challenged the independent union's right to registration, claiming it to be a company union. The labor board after a hearing said it was not convinced to the contrary, and denied the U. P. U. E. recognition of its bargaining contracts.

Gerald Foster, president of the independent, said the labor board denied the registration before the U. P. U. E. had an opportunity to file its legal brief in the hearing. He said some of the A. F. of L. and CIO allegations were false.

Prepare Data For Study of Relief Groups

Senate Committee to Investigate Value of Emergency Agencies

MAY OUTLINE POLICY
Program to be Presented
To Congress at Its Next Meeting

Washington.—(P)—Committee experts began gathering data today for an extensive senate investigation of the worth of the emergency agencies engaged in administering federal relief.

Alan Johnstone, counsel for the special senate committee to investigate unemployment and relief, asked the agencies to supply him with comprehensive information on their activities.

These agencies include the works progress administration, the public works administration, civilian conservation corps, and the resettlement administration, the latter now defunct.

Johnstone said the data would be used to prepare an agenda of work which he will recommend to the committee when it convenes here, probably early in October. Public hearings, he added, may start in November.

Evaluation Aim
At these hearings, Johnstone said, the committee will attempt to "evaluate" the work of the various agencies, in order to recommend to congress a permanent relief policy. Private employers, state and federal officials and others concerned will be consulted, the committee counsel said.

Appointment of the committee, headed by Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) grew out of an unsuccessful attempt by Byrnes and other senators to slash the administration's $1,500,000,000 relief budget by one-third. Both opponents and proponents of the cut said insufficient data was available on the extent and nature of unemployment and the need for federal assistance.

Johnstone said he believed the committee would seek information to enable it to recommend to congress whether any of the existing relief agencies ought to be retained on a permanent basis or whether all ought to be replaced by a new type of agency, and what form of relief ought to be provided as a long-time proposition.

Seven Main Points
He suggested these points as among the subjects which he will recommend for committee study and hearings:

1. The extent of unemployment as it may be revealed by the registration ordered during the last session of congress.

2. The number of persons receiving benefits of all kinds from the federal government or the states on account of unemployment, old age or physical incapacity.

3. Need for vocational "retraining" and education of persons who have been long on the relief rolls.

4. The economic value of work projects which have been long on the relief rolls.

5. The economic value of work projects which have been completed.

6. Rural relief problems and the relation of unemployment to the permanent farm program.

7. The financial ability of states and cities to share the relief burden.

8. The part labor-saving machinery and methods have played in causing unemployment.

U. A. W. A. May Dismiss Extremist Organizers

Detroit.—(P)—Reports that extremists were to be removed from the pay roll of the United Automobile Workers of America gained credence today as Homer Martin, president, asserted that communists are entitled to membership "only in the rank and file and not as U. A. W. A. organizers."

The reports represented Martin as being determined radical activities and "wildcat" strikes should not imperil contracts between the union and automobile manufacturer.

The executive board chosen at the recent convention in Milwaukee will meet Monday. It will issue credentials to organizers and office employees for the ensuing year. Martin will recommend which employees shall be retained.

Asked if he would recommend that credentials be withheld from communists, Martin replied "you'll see."

122 Boys in Blue Parade Around State Capitol Square at National Gathering

Madison.—(P)—The boys in blue, ever smaller in numbers but still strong in spirit, rolled back the years and marched again today.

Heads erect and eyes flashing, 122 of the spryest stalwarts who fought for the Union in the Civil war paraded a mile-long route around the state capitol square to the beat of fife and drum corps and the United States Marine band.

There were no laggards. Those physically unable to withstand the prior of the march rode ahead of the marchers in automobiles.

In keeping with tradition, the Grand Army of the Republic marched alone, interspersed with drum corps.

Last year at Washington there were only 154 in the blue line, but

Episcopal Bishop Raps 'Propaganda' In Church League

New York.—(P)—The prominence given planned meetings of the Church League for Industrial Democracy on the tentative program of the Protestant Episcopal church's general convention in Cincinnati Oct. 6 to 20 drew sharp criticism today from Bishop William T. Manning of New York.

The bishop's attack, contained in a letter to the editors of all Episcopal weeklies, said no group should be permitted to use the general convention as "a means for its economic and political propaganda."

An invitation issued to Homer Martin of the United Automobile Workers' union to speak at one of the league meetings irked the bishop, who said this placed the church in the position of recognizing the Committee for Industrial Organization.

"Why is William Green or some representative of the A. F. of L. not given opportunity to present his side of the case in the labor controversy?" the bishop asked.

Gijon Defenders Defeat Fascists In Bitter Battle

Turn on Pursuers After 13
Days of Retreat.

Dispatch Says

Hendayne, Franco-Spanish Frontier.—(P)—The bedraggled defenders of Gijon, in the Spanish northwest, were reported to have whirled about today, after 13 days of retreat before advancing insurgents and inflicted a disastrous defeat on their pursuers.

Five hundred of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's advance guard were slain or wounded in the fierce battle on the Biscayan coast road about four miles west of Llanes and about 45 miles east of Gijon, according to advices from Gijon, the seaport objective of the insurgents.

The Laranaga battalion of dynamite-throwing Asturian soldiers and the remnants of the Basque army swept from Santander province late last month had entrenched themselves in places of vantage on the coastal road to await the invaders.

They opened fire on the enemy column with all available ammunition, routing both Franco's tanks and infantry. When the ammunition gave out the government force continued a hand-to-hand struggle with bayonets.

More than 100 enemy dead littered the battlefield.

The insurgent troops still were able to continue their westward march along a 20-mile front from Picos de Europa, a mountain ridge, to the sea, but the defenders held all positions along one flank despite heavy artillery and air attacks.

An insurgent bombing plane, carrying a crew of four identified in government dispatches as Germans, was brought down in combat.

Far away in the Spanish northeast, insurgent troops were reported to have spearheaded their way back into Belchite, the strategic town of the Zaragoza sector from which they were driven last Friday.

Food Costs Declining, Secretary Wallace Says

Washington.—(P)—Secretary Wallace said today food costs already are beginning to decline because of the larger crops farmers are harvesting this year.

His trend should continue, the cabinet member said in an interview, "if we have a series of normal crop yields."

Wallace said wholesale food prices turned downward in August and that large crops of corn and other livestock feeds indicated meat prices would follow in 1938.

"Of course the city resident must remember," he said, "that it takes even the best farmers several months to convert corn into pork chops and beef steaks. The city man must remember too that fair prices for farm products are one of the best guarantees of continuing city prosperity."

Jap Planes Bomb Train Loaded With Refugees; 300 Killed, 400 Injured

Five Cars Blown From Tracks, 30 Miles From Shanghai

NO NEUTRAL ZONE
French-British-U. S. Proposal Rejected by Japanese

Shanghai.—(P)—At least 300 Chinese noncombatants were killed and 400 injured today in one of the worst disasters caused by Japanese air bombs in the three months of undeclared war.

Five railroad cars, packed with Chinese refugees fleeing from the war zone, were blown from their track by Japanese bombers at Sungkiang station, 30 miles from Shanghai.

Fifteen hundred Chinese were wedged into every inch of the train when the bombs burst in their midst.

Two densely crowded second-class coaches and three third-class cars were shattered by the blast, lifted from the wrecked roadbed and turned over.

Many of their occupants not killed by the explosives were crushed to death in the wreckage.

The bombs fell without warning as the train was standing in the Sungkiang station on the line to Hankow.

Federation Drops Costello as Head Of Kenosha Union

Three Others Also Suggested by Padway on Instructions From Green

Milwaukee.—(P)—Joseph A. Padway, counsel for the American Federation of Labor, said today he has drawn an order suspending Assemblyman Emil Costello as president of the Federal Labor Union (A. F. of L.) at the Simmons company in Kenosha.

Padway said the order, issued on instructions from William Green, A. F. of L. president, also suspended Fred Podell, a trustee, and Frank Witmer and Archie Bridges, members of the union's executive board.

The suspension, Padway added, was based on charges of insubordination and creation of dual unionism.

Costello is temporary state chairman of the CIO.

The suspension order charged Costello and the others with violating their oaths as officers of the union by "aiding and abetting dual unions" condemning the A. F. of L. and maligning its officers; engaging in an attempt to "cause the Simmons union to secede from the A. F. of L." and have it affiliate with "other organizations which are not a part of or affiliated with the A. F. of L." and with tending to bring the A. F. of L. into disrepute.

Costello said he had received no official word of the suspension. Padway explained the order was sent to Costello by registered mail late yesterday and probably would not reach Kenosha until sometime today.

Costello recently was named a delegate to the state federation of labor's convention to be held in Menomonee Sept. 21. Leaders of the A. F. of L. expressed doubt he would be seated.

Seek New Weapons in War Against Disease

Chicago.—(P)—The health department hunted for new weapons to fight infantile paralysis today on receiving reports of 19 new cases of the disease, the highest number for any 24 hours this summer.

Dr. Herman H. Bundesen, president of the board of health, called a special meeting of leading physicians and medical school professors to consider further preventive measures.

Public and parochial school reopenings have been delayed, children under 15 have been barred from motion picture theaters and playgrounds and wading pools have been closed since Dr. Bundesen reported the condition serious a week ago.

The previous high count of new cases for a single day was 14. Thirty-three new cases were reported over the labor day weekend.

Favor Set Retail Prices on Milk Bought at Farms

Farmer Must Meet City Requirements, Dealers State at Hearing

Milk dealers in the Appleton area favored fixing retail prices for milk sold, at farms in boundaries to be set up in the area, expressed a lukewarm attitude, toward a fund to advertise dairy products, satisfaction with the present scale of prices on chocolate drinks made from milk and chocolate milk at a hearing conducted in the courthouse yesterday afternoon by the state department of agriculture and markets.

The milk dealers' association will meet in the near future to work out details for setting up area boundaries and taking official action regarding prices on chocolate drinks and chocolate milk. The department is expected to issue a new order regarding the subject, discussed at the hearing soon, according to Commissioner F. Schultheiss, who conducted the hearing.

Under the new order, a producer will be allowed to sell milk at his farm, providing the farm meets the sanitary requirements demanded of farmers who sell their milk to the dealers and in the city. He also must bottle it in his own containers, rather than sell in bulk in pails or other receptacles.

The consensus of opinion of the dealers was that under such conditions the farmer should be allowed to sell the milk from 1 to 2 cents cheaper than the delivered price, which they said about equalled the delivery cost.

Discuss Advertising

The dealers discussed at length the provision of the 1937 control act which allows the state department to take a small checkoff on all milk to be used in creating an advertising fund to promote the consumption of milk in the territory. The advertising would be done with the cooperation of a local committee.

Some of the dealers thought that advertising at the present time is not necessary, while others were of the opinion that such a plan would increase milk consumption. Commissioner Schultheiss said that it is unlikely it will be carried out in the near future.

The proposed plan, whereby all fluid milk was to be labeled to denote its test has been abandoned by the department, it was announced by R. M. Orchard, department counsel.

'93 Enrolled at Graded School

Total at Black Creek Is One Less Than Last Year's Figures

Due to the elimination of one teacher, the seventh grade classes are being taught by the other teachers. Each teacher will have at least one class.

Mrs. McCree, who was formerly assistant principal, replaces Miss Ruth Young as third and fourth grade teacher. Miss Young was married to Roy Parfitt several months ago and the couple is living in Detroit, Mich.

Mr. Roach replaces A. P. Prueter who is now living at Manitowoc.

The trip will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning with cars leaving from Boyden's store. A pot-luck dinner will be served at noon and the visit to the Hines will follow immediately.

The second meeting will be held in the form of a picnic at the C. VanVuren cottage on Lake Koshong. At this meeting the club will hear a health talk by Miss Marie Klein, Outagamie county nurse, Appleton.

"Simple Home Decorating" will be the subject of the first meeting on October and will be discussed by Eugene Deering Wery of Green Bay. The Misses Eleanor Tubbs and Emma Goss will give the club glimpses of their trips to the eastern United States and to the west.

Black, member of the board of control, Waupaca, will speak on "Warfare and Probation in Wisconsin." Miss Irene Albrecht of Appleton will be the speaker for the third meeting on December 10.

Yearbook Crosses Interests of Two Groups in Makeup

The 1936 and 1937 yearbooks of the United States Department of Agriculture, concerned with breeding of plants and animals, have something of the hybrid nature of much of the material with which they deal, according to Gove Hambridge, editor, in a bulletin received by R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

They are intended to cross the interests of two groups: (1) Readers who want to know what is going on in the field of plant and animal breeding in order to enlarge their understanding and to enable them to carry on their farming operations more intelligently; and (2) students and others who have, or expect to have, a closer concern with the science of genetics.

"The latter group," he says, "comprises thousands of individuals, including young people now in schools and colleges who will be the American farmers and the agricultural scientists of tomorrow, some of them future leaders in shaping agricultural progress; a large number of workers in various parts of the country who are engaged in the practical effort to create better plants and animals; and teachers, extension workers, and others whose business it is to know as much as possible about all the major factors in modern agriculture."

Collective Action Needed in Nation, LaFollette Says

find constructive outlets for unleashed powers, such as electricity, he said, or they will find destructive ones.

"We can't deal with results, but with the causes," he went on. "Hitler and Mussolini can't be looked upon as causes, but as results. Christians shudder at the current wave of dictatorship. They sense that the individual is of no account, only the totalitarianism of the state."

Church Can Help

"We have a right to look to those who preach the gospel how to keep the integrity and responsibility of the individual. The church can furnish two things that are needed, intelligence and the spiritual quality of individual understanding, of character and of the human soul."

"Harness the profit motive for something besides purely selfish purposes. It is the way through to find a solution to the common problem and still retain the integrity and responsibility of the individual."

People must realize that they must work together and decide under what kind of a system they are going to do this. Individualism is as vital today as it ever was, he went on in saying that Wisconsin was one of the first states to do constructive building by collective action and yet retain individualism.

Compensation Act

He referred to the workmen's compensation act which was put into effect about 25 years ago. A plan was set up whereby each employer had to pay enough to make his plant safe and each employer's account was kept separate.

The right of the individual worker was retained, LaFollette said, and he gets the highest benefits paid in any state while the total cost and burden on business and industry is less than in any other state.

"Man does not live by bread alone, and no nation is really rich that does not so guide and administer itself so that its aim is integrity and responsibility of the individual," the governor said. "A nation is no stronger than the strength and vitality of its people."

Each person has a job to do, he continued, and it can't be shifted to anyone else. Failure to act is action in itself, he said, in stressing the preservation and increasing importance of the character, soul and spirit of the people.

Church Members Can Save World, Bishop Asserts

'Insist on Recognition of God,' Methodist Conference Is Told

If the church members of America would unite in frowning on the twin gods of business and fear of loss of social recognition, and insist on a recognition of the true and living God, they could turn the tide and save civilization, Bishop J. Ralph Magee of the St. Paul area said in his keynote speech before the opening session of the Wisconsin annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church last night at First Methodist Episcopal church.

"The time has come when God must be placed first and kept there," Bishop Magee continued. "There is no source from which real living can be learned except from God. The church is still the only agency which is making this a real study."

"Pointing to the danger of professionalism in worship, the speaker stated that the final test of the value of worship comes in actuality practicing the criteria one has set up at church or private devotions. He stressed the fact that everyone has the responsibility of stewardship in the matter of his talents, gifts and abilities, for man does not possess anything which he has independently created. Even ownership is a conceded right. To recognize that man is a steward and to utilize one's powers for God is real stewardship and is fundamental in Christianity, Bishop Magee added.

Two Theories of Life

Expressing the belief that a pastor should be an announcer of sins evident in society but not a denouncer of society as a whole, the bishop said that "when the church becomes an inflamer of inner in-deeds and offers no definite education as to what to do with this inner flame, it becomes a menace as a creator of fanatics, is guilty of administering social opiates and is a blind leader of the blind."

Today there are two theories of life in a desperate struggle for supremacy, one that life's opportunities must come through materialistic regimentation as maintained by two extremes of our social structure, the communist and the fascist, and the other, the Christian one, that the individual must be exalted to his highest body, mind and soul efficiency, the speaker went on. Any theory of society exacting regimentation will result either in the compulsion by armed force and the abrogation of free speech and action, or wide spread infraction of the laws, he continued, adding that the only hope of any society is the creation of a spirit and ideal which produces voluntary compliance by the vast majority.

"The Christian Gospel appears to have almost a clear field in the creation of such a spirit and ideal," Bishop Magee stated.

Reveals Program

The bishop briefly reviewed a few of the influences in the life of John Wesley, founder of Methodism, and pointed to the program which is being placed before the conference by the General Conference Commission on Evangelism for the coming year. The program asks that September and October be used in the churches to appraise the value of the church and that he people may become more aware of the contribution the church is making to the world, and to locate its weaknesses. In November and December the commission asks that churches focus upon the influence of the Christian home upon Wesley's life, he added, stating that the home life of America must be rebuilt around some sacred shrine such as a family altar.

The study of loss in missionary passion and the promotion of the Million Unit fellowship as a means of larger expression are recommended for January and February, while in March and April, the Lenten months, church members are urged to set aside this time for securing definite commitments to work for God through a surrender of other interests that God may be served. Bishop Magee said that it is the hope of the commission that every church in Methodism hold a service on May 24, 1938, in commemoration of Wesley's Aldersgate experience.

Speaking of the progress which has been made in knowledge of the world and its personalities during the last 30 or 40 years, the bishop pointed out that all the knowledge in the world will not destroy greed, suspicion, jealousy or hate, nor will it teach people how to live together. He pointed to the large percentages of professed Christians who never pray, and drew the conclusion that failure to pray means a lack of faith in God.

Most Reestablish Faith

"Unless we can reestablish faith in God there is no hope for so-called civilization," Bishop Magee went on. "There is no other institution today trying to make men God-minded, and the church is not bending sufficient energy in that direction. If a minister can do only one thing, this is it, or he has no right in the ministry."

In conclusion the speaker said, "If the church actually brings God-consciousness to men then it is the most significant institution on the earth, and its ministers and full time workers are creative forces in civilization, and its loyal and loving laymen are vital social and political life savers."

"The ministry must never become a racket," he added. "The group must purge itself of any who are professional and time serving. The ministry must continue to be prophets of the living God and His ways among men."

The keynote address was given in connection with a communion service last night at the First Methodist church, Dr. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor of the local church, gave the prayer and introduced Bishop Magee.

Hines Urges Civil War Vets To Pledge Themselves Anew To Program of World Peace

Madison—Brigadier General Frank Hines of Washington, D. C., administrator of veterans affairs, urged civil war soldiers at their national encampment today to pledge themselves anew to a program of world peace.

"You who have known war at its worst and have experienced its direct results can only join me in the sincerest hope that a way may be found by the nations of the world for dispersing the ominous clouds now darkening the horizon, that all peoples may live in peace," he said. "And let me mention," he added, "the laudable efforts being made by our president and his capable secretary of state to that end."

General Hines spoke at the Grand Army of the Republics seventy-first annual encampment, addressing about 200 survivors of an army of 2,400,000. He extended President Roosevelt's greetings.

"The president," he said, "joins with all of us in sincere regret that your ranks are thinning so rapidly and holds in admiration the example which you have set for loyal devotion to our country and flag."

The veterans administrator reviewed the long process of pension grants, the establishment of hospitals and veterans homes, by which the government sought to give its old soldiers contentment and freedom from financial care in their declining years.

"I wonder if you are fully aware how fortunate you were if you had to fight in any war—to have fought in the one you did; and under our flag," he said.

"Up to the termination of the war in which you served, we had made no general provision for giving domiciliary care to veterans," he said. "Pensions had been established from the time of the Revolution, but nothing more. And these seem but a pittance as compared with those of today."

General Hines reported only 11 Civil war veterans are now enjoying the privileges of national soldiers' homes, compared with a peak of 20,464 residents in 1905.

Expressing a "deep sadness" over the rapidly approaching end of the Grand Army, General Hines paid tribute to the bravery of Union soldiers.

"Modern warfare has introduced certain horrors which you never knew on the battle field—the airplane; the barrage of heavy artillery; the modern machine gun; poison gas," he said.

"Yet except in the case of relatively small groups attacking machine gun nests, no one of these involves the fact to face to face attack the hand to hand encounter; the kind of bravery," he expressed by you and your comrades at Gettysburg, who stood on Cemetery hill awaiting the approach of Pickett and his five thousand. It was repeated by you in every battle of the Civil war. Without it the war would not have been won."

Seymour Man Loses Arm In Farm Mishap Monday

Ben Krueger, Seymour, had his right arm amputated below the elbow as a result of an accident on his father's farm near Seymour Monday afternoon in which the arm was badly mangled in a corn shredder. He was taken to St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay. The father, Max Krueger, suffered injuries to both hands when he removed the drive belt of the shredder while it was in motion.

Chemical Made of Coal and Fat Keeps Clothing From Getting Wet, Report

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Rochester, N. Y. (AP)—Spilling the breakfast coffee in the lap does not even wet clothing treated with a new chemical made from coal and fat, which was exhibited at the American Chemical society here today.

Straight whiskey is different. It soaks in. But anything made of water runs off like falling on a duck's back. The new chemical is an attempt to find the all-around water "repellent," something which can be used on all fabrics, and that will neither wash out nor be affected by dry cleaning.

The new stuff does all these, said Du Pont chemists who exhibited it. It is a new laboratory product, not ready for the market, they said. It has been used on cotton, wool, silk and rayon.

All of these fabrics become softer to the touch when treated with the coal-fat chemical. It does not coat the fabric like paint, but sinks into the fibers. As a result the coats that shed water do some unusual tricks.

A man sitting down in a pan of water would get wet to the skin, but his pants would be dry. Water can be squeezed through cloth treated with this solution, but the cloth remains dry. It takes a hard squeeze or a lot of weight to force the water through.

The water can pass through the cloth because the "repellent" leaves the ordinary openings in the weave of the cloth un-filled. Water passes through them, under pressure, but does not soak into the threads as it goes by.

On a hot day pockets could be filled with ice, and the person inside would feel the coolness, without getting wet. But if someone squeezed pocket too hard, the person would drip.

Churches Resume Fall Activities; Methodists Meet

Baptist Young People's Union Makes Plans For Winter

The opening of the Wisconsin annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday and the resumption of fall activities in the churches after a recess during the summer months highlight church news this week.

The attention of Methodists throughout Wisconsin is focused on Appleton this week, for nearly 350 ministerial and lay delegates and a large number of visitors are here for the Wisconsin annual conference which began Tuesday and will continue through Sunday. Principal speakers include Governor Philip LaFollette who addressed the itinerants' banquet last night; Bishop J. Ralph Magee who will preside at the sessions and give a devotional address each morning; Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, former president of the Federal Council of Churches who will speak at 1:45 each afternoon; the Rev. Dan B. Brummitt, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate; the Rev. Edward D. Kohlstedt, secretary of the board of home missions; the Rev. Fred D. Gealy, missionary to Japan; Dr. Thomas N. Barrows, president of Lawrence college; Dr. Harry Monroe, director of field administration and adult work of the International Council of Religious Education; Dr. Carl Seitter, secretary of institutes and recreational activities of the board of education; Miss Norma Craven, missionary to Burma, India; the Rev. Charles Swan and the Rev. Charles C. Weber, field secretary of the Methodist Federation for Social Service.

Council to Meet

Other churches in the city are beginning to resume activities among the various organizations this week. At First Baptist church plans for fall and winter were discussed at a Baptist Young People's Union meeting last night at the church, and on Friday night the Sunday school council will meet. Weekly prayer and Bible study will be held at 7:30 Thursday night and every Thursday thereafter.

Senior Luther League of Trinity English Lutheran church will meet Wednesday night at the church, the sewing circle is meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. E. Tsch. N. Richmond street, and Thursday afternoon the Ladies Aid society will meet at the church. The sermon by the Rev. D. E. Bossman past Sunday was "Acceptable Christian Service."

The staff of the Congregational church school will meet for supper and a business meeting at 6:30 Friday night at the church. Last Sunday the Rev. John B. Hanna, pastor, preached his first sermon since re- turning from his vacation. His subject was "The Church's Message in a Time of Social Struggle."

Choir to Rehearse

Sunday school teachers of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church will meet at 7:30 Friday night at the home of Miss Bernice Limpert, 927 N. Richmond street. The junior choir will hold rehearsals at 7 o'clock Thursday night and the senior choir at 8 o'clock.

Investigator Johnson, Menasha, a candidate for the ministry, preached Sunday at St. Matthew Lutheran church in the absence of the Rev. Philip Froehke, pastor, who spoke at the mission festival at Greenleaf. At Zion Lutheran church the Rev. Theodore Marth spoke on the theme, "Consider the lilies of the field and the grass of the field and your heavenly Father." "Seeking the Highest" was the subject of a sermon by the Rev. C. H. Blum at Emmanuel Evangelical church Sunday. The Rev. T. J. Sauer preached Sunday at St. Paul Lutheran church on "Why Speak Against God?"

The vestry of All Saints Episcopal church will meet Thursday evening at the parish hall. Choir rehearsals will begin at 7:15 this evening. At First Reformed and Evangelical church the Rev. John Scheib of Kaukauna spoke Sunday on "Christ's Call."

"Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passage was taken from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man, in the likeness of his Maker, reflects the central light of being, the invisible God. As there is no corporeality in the mirrored form, which is but a reflection, so man, like all things real, reflects God, his divine principle, not in a mortal body. . . . Man is not God, but like a ray of light which comes from the sun, man, the outcome of God, reflects God."

Appleton Merchants Plan for Fall Opening

Novel displays are being planned and consignments of stock received by Appleton retail merchants for the fall opening, Sept. 16, 17 and 18. A general showing of autumn wearing apparel will be introduced by ready-to-wear shops, hardware and sporting goods stores will show hunting and fishing equipment for the fall season and department stores will display new lines of goods.

Separate Labor Party Would be Unwise, Club Told

Clergyman Says CIO Should Forget $500,000 Gift to Democrats

Declaring that a labor party would separate labor from the rest of the population, the Rev. C. C. Sanderson, said at a Rotary club meeting at Hotel Northern Tuesday, "We do not want a labor party; we want labor, representatives in every party."

The Rev. Mr. Sanderson outlined his views on trends in present industrial leadership.

Speaking of the alleged $500,000 gift of the CIO to the Democratic campaign fund, the Kaukauna man said, "To present a gift, and then to demand something in return is bribery. The CIO would be in a much better position if it would forget its contribution."

"No group in America can succeed at the expense of any other group. Instead of separating the parties, we need something to bring them together. Our present economic system is the best that we can have and we should not try to destroy it. Its ills can be corrected," the speaker said.

Talking about business trends, the Rev. Mr. Sanderson said that competition is healthy and as long as humans remain as they are there will be competition. The industrial order is not necessarily antagonistic to itself as some people believe, he said. The laborer has a right to his job and a living wage as well as the investor has a right to expect returns on his investment.

"The consumer is the key to any kind of progress. He must have purchasing power and he must get equal value when he spends his money. Industrialists are beginning to see this and are striving to give the consumer more value for a dollar. The workers success is wrapped up in the success of industry. The sooner both realize their respective situations in the economic system, the sooner each will have the cooperation of the other," he concluded.

A total of 24,849 dealers, manufacturers, rectifiers, practitioners and packers in Wisconsin under federal law in order to conduct their business bought special-tax stamps. Of that number, all but 4,843 pertained to liquor making and selling. Their contribution in special taxes totaled $500,437.

Exclusive of special-tax stamps pertaining to liquor, $7,699 was turned back into the treasury by 4,843 buyers of special-tax stamps.

Liquor tax stamps bought by Wisconsin residents from the federal government in the fiscal year 1937 were as follows: 13,489 retail liquor dealers at $25 each; 3,471 retail dealers in fermented malt liquors at $20 each; 1,172 temporary dealers in fermented malt liquors (at fairs, picnics, etc.) at $2 each; 1,003 wholesale dealers in fermented malt liquors at $50 each; 157 wholesale liquor dealers at $100 each; five rectifiers of less than 500 barrels at $100 each; three rectifiers of 500 barrels or more yearly at $200; four retail liquor dealers at large at $5 each; 602 retail dealers in medicinal liquors at $25; 93 brewers of 500 barrels or more yearly at $100 each; three retail dealers in malt liquors at large at $20.

Newspaper Office Boys Are Different Type Now

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—There has been a strange development in the newspaper shops of this country in the last few years. The office boy has become a class conscious man, measuring his time by the clock, storing up his overtime and voting "strike" or "no strike" on an equal footing with the star rewrite man. He may be a college graduate or a horn-rimmed night school student who intends to be a lawyer, a pharmacist or a labor leader, or possibly an essayist for the deepthinking, butchers' paper magazines.

He was not always thus.

Richard Harding Davis wrote in his story called "Gallagher" the greatest fiction piece about an office boy that was ever put to paper. Gallagher helped the star reporter scoop the town on the story of a bootleg prize fight that was produced in a barn out in the suburbs. An incorrigible little devil he was, but heart and soul a newspaper reporter of the old school. There were many Gallaghers even in my time, which began somewhat after the day of Richard Harding Davis.

We had a Gallagher in the United Press shop in New York about 1913 by the name of Harold Manning. He was an Irish kid about 15 years old, and for reasons which need no development he was known to one and all as Red.

Red Manning was very fresh, but a fire engine chaser and a reporter, a newspaper man in his very world. His principal duty was to make "books" as they were called in the press association shops, and keep a large supply on hand for emergencies. A "book" was a combination of flimsy paper and carbon sheets, and it took skill and industry to keep enough of them hidden away in odd corners to meet such terrible trials as a Triangle factory fire or a Titanic disaster, when the telegraph operators would be yelling "books, books!" every few minutes.

Demand for 'Books' Heavy in Emergency

In those crises, an operator would type off only a couple of words or a couple of lines per book, then rip it out of the typewriter and toss it over to the man who was feeding outgoing wires. The kid was expected to produce a new pile of books from some inexhaustible source to meet these demands.

Meantime he had also to rip off the flimsy sheets and stab them on to pikes around the shop for the writers and wire editors, and he was expected to say "bulletin!" if the news on the sheet was urgent or "flash!" if it was extra urgent. He had enough to do.

Red Manning did all this, and he was a fine office boy except that he was inclined to be fresh beyond the tolerance of older men. So once, after the patience of his elders was exhausted, he was fired.

After that, for several months in our little shop, we had a dreadful succession of indifferent, lazy stupid little misfits. They came and went day by day, sawing, swarting, completely unfit children of foreign immigrants, who simply had no appreciation of the job. They would lay off and leave us in a bad fix when they felt that way, and they never had any books stuck away in secret places for emergencies, as Red always had. Finally on election night in 1912, when Woodrow Wilson was beating Taft and Theodore Roosevelt, things were in a terrible jam.

Red Wasn't Rehired: Just Came Back to Work

A national election night was an event which nobody has ever described. The wire clacking, the smell of egg sandwiches and coffee from the greasy spoon downstairs, the smells of cigar smoke and carbon papers, and flimsy, steam heat and men and the cries of "flash!" and "bulletin!" and "68 out of 234 counties in Wisconsin give Wilson so-and-so many votes."

In this crisis the boss heard a familiar voice at his ear, crying "bulletin!" and looked up to see our old friend Red Manning, who had been fired for being too fresh. He wanted to kiss Red. He looked over at the office boy's desk, where two little Sicilians had been doing the work of one Irishman for several weeks and doing it badly, and asked, "What are you doing here, Red? Where are those others?"

"I threw them bums out," Red said. "You need a newspaper man on a night like tonight. 'Bulletin!'"

Red wasn't exactly rehired. He just came back to work, and he stayed on until he died, a couple of years later, of heart disease.

One of the last memories of Red Manning was an office bulletin which he typed himself and passed around to every one in the shop—a personal ultimatum which read: "Notice—hereafter you are requested to call me Harold and stop calling me Red."

(signed) "Red."

Council Defeats Move for Repeal Of Police Pension

Former Police Chief Charges Previous Action Of Aldermen Was Illegal

Kaukauna—A check for $4.64 resulted in the ordinance providing for a police pension, thought to have been repealed at the last council meeting, being left intact at the meeting of the city council in the municipal building last night.

The check was for two days' pension, payable to Richard H. McCarty, former police chief, as his last payment under the old ordinance. The check was accompanied by a letter from McCarty, in which it was charged that Alderman T. L. Seggelink's motion for repeal of the 1928 ordinance, approved by a 7 to 3 vote at the August 17 meeting, was illegal, claiming that the ordinance could only be supplanted by a new ordinance, and could not be abolished by a simple motion of repeal.

Alderman Seggelink was the first to admit his mistake of the previous meeting, saying he realized the repeal of the ordinance as carried was not the proper legal procedure, and adding that he had prepared a new ordinance, providing for the repeal of ordinance 280, (the police pension ordinance) to take effect upon passage. He then presented it for approval.

Chief of Police James E. McFadden then requested the council to leave the ordinance as it was.

Seggelink retorted "it was time the council was allowed to handle the financial matters of the city without outside interference."

Supports McFadden

Alderman W. H. Cooper came to McFadden's support, saying he thought the chief of police had a right to present his case.

Alderman Raymond Nagel then asked if any action taken could affect McCarty's pension. H. F. Andrews, city attorney, replied that no definite answer could be given to this question, adding, however, that McCarty seemed to have the best side of the case.

The old question as to the legality of the original ordinance's passage in 1928 was again raised by Seggelink, who said "as I recall six aldermen approved the action in a council meeting two nights after the election night meeting in which the ordinance was passed. Wisconsin statutes require a two-thirds quorum for business purposes, thus their approval was illegal."

Call for Records

Cooper then stated that he had been a member of the council at that time, but recalled no meeting on election day for any purpose than allowing bills. Seggelink then demanded the clerk produce the records of the meeting, after which he read from them showing a meeting was held April 3, 1928, at which the ordinance was passed after a third reading by a 7 to 2 vote, and a meeting April 5, at which six were present and the minutes of the meeting of the 3 were read and approved. McFadden then gave the opinion that the spring election was not a legal holiday, and the action of the council on that day was legal.

Alderman G. S. Mulholland then asked that if the ex-chief, McCarty, had a right to question the repeal of the ordinance, did not also the present chief, McFadden, have the same right?

Alderman Oscar Alger asked that Seggelink's new ordinance abolishing the old one be withdrawn, adding that he for one did not wish to vote until all questions of legality had been definitely settled. Alderman Jule Mertes then spoke for an immediate vote. Seggelink added that his ordinance of this meeting was no different in substance from that which the council passed on Aug. 17, and also asked for immediate passage.

Cooper gained the floor, and argued for the old measure, saying the law provided for firemen's pensions, and the work of the police was equally as hazardous. "Why should we discriminate between them?" he concluded.

Wants Some System

Alderman Edward Steidl then rose and voiced the opinion that all the council members wanted some kind of a pension, but not the present set-up. "The police should pay more into the fund, and not resign, accept their pension, and then take other jobs."

Alger again suggested the measure be laid over, pending the drawing up of a new ordinance altering the terms of that of 1928.

Seggelink quickly responded that the ordinance had now been before the council several times, and was getting nowhere fast. Patching the old ordinance would be of no avail, he said. Repeal the old one and adopt a new one, settling the matter once and for all, he urged. He cited the example of Madison's water workers pension, into which the workers paid more than the Kaukauna police pay into the present system, adding, however, that he did not blame the police for their stand, saying he wouldn't pay 2 1/2 per cent if he could get by with 1 per cent. "But the city of Kaukauna is not in a position to pay three and one-half times as much as the force," he concluded.

Chief of Police McFadden countered with the statement that all cities in Wisconsin, except Milwaukee, which is under a special system, have police and fire pensions calling for 1 per cent contributions, and that until these cities change Kaukauna police should be entitled to the same consideration. Seggelink asked how many cities of the 4th class had a pension fund, to which McFadden replied that two-thirds of them had.

Nagel then asked for the third time that the matter be laid over. Mertes objected, saying that the council's dilatoriness in these matters had made it the laughing stock of the valley, and asked for an immediate vote. Mayor Nelson interposed and stated that Seggelink's proposed ordinance abolishing the old ordinance must be voted upon. The vote was taken, with Aldermen Fernal, Nagel, Alger, Cooper and Mulholland combining to defeat the ordinance for repeal. Mertes, Steidl, Seggelink and Kilgas voted for its passage. Alderman Ludtke was absent from the meeting.

The ordinance of 1928, then, is still in effect, and will be until a new ordinance, revising the set-up, is passed. It is expected that Seggelink will present such a measure at the next meeting of the council, Sept. 21.

which six were present and the minutes of the meeting of the 3 were read and approved. McFadden then gave the opinion that the spring election was not a legal holiday, and the action of the council on that day was legal.

Alderman G. S. Mulholland then asked that if the ex-chief, McCarty, had a right to question the repeal of the ordinance, did not also the present chief, McFadden, have the same right?

Alderman Oscar Alger asked that Seggelink's new ordinance abolishing the old one be withdrawn, adding that he for one did not wish to vote until all questions of legality had been definitely settled. Alderman Jule Mertes then spoke for an immediate vote. Seggelink added that his ordinance of this meeting was no different in substance from that which the council passed on Aug. 17, and also asked for immediate passage.

Lawrence Scores Evacuation Order Made by President

Says Such Matters Should Be Handled Through Department of State

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — President Roosevelt is right in theory in stating that Americans remaining in China do so at their own risk. But, with his characteristic disregard of the law, he is wrong in the way of handling such matters through the department of state. Mr. Roosevelt has given another one of those hair-trigger interviews to the press which cause no end of embarrassment to other departments.

If you were an American citizen, many thousands of miles away from home, with a job and property to protect as well as your wife and children, and if a couple of barbarian armies began bombarding a settlement hitherto protected by sacred treaty rights, you wouldn't feel very kindly toward someone who announced out of a clear sky not only that you must get out at once, but that, if you were compelled to stay, you were doing so at your own risk.

If Mr. Roosevelt had sent a cablegram to the Japanese and Chinese governments, saying, "go ahead and bomb as many Americans as you like, we don't care," you would not have been any less surprised.

For it is one thing to issue the customary and formal notice to American citizens to evacuate war zones—this has been done by past administrations again and again—and it is another thing to tell American citizens to get out of areas supposed to be neutral and supposed to be under the joint protection of the civilized powers of the world.

In theory, all nationals stay in foreign countries at their own risk. It isn't necessary for a whole nation to be plunged into war to save nationals who live abroad. But that's quite a different thing from affording to your nationals abroad the protection that enlightened nations always give to their citizens, no matter where they happen to be.

Meetings of Protest
To have the president of the United States, instead of consular officials, issue a pronouncement about evacuating foreign areas, and to do it in informal fashion, without accompanying it with the necessary warnings to foreign governments that America does not by any means concede that foreign governments have a right to attack American citizens living in a treaty protected port, is something so shocking in the history of international relations that it is small wonder the Americans in Shanghai have been holding meetings of bitter protest.

The issue in the far east is one of protection of non-combatants. American diplomacy is nowadays so steeped in pacifist doctrine that it approaches almost the point of sheer cowardice. Theoretically, this might imply a saving of American boys from being plunged into a needless war, but, when a nation yields its rights, the result usually is that other nations begin taking advantage of the nation which intimates that it will never fight to protect its rights.

In these days, when a hundred planes come easily from Italy on a non-stop flight in peace-time, and when bombardment of big cities from the air is no longer a jingo's myth, the nation which refuses to be realistic about the danger of yielding rights is bound to become involved sooner or later in a desperate war of defense against an aggressor nation.

Mr. Roosevelt fortunately has been building up American defenses on land, sea and in the air. He has failed in the one field of defense that is most essential of all—the use of diplomatic power to prevent war and involvement. Americans in the Far East are entitled to an opportunity to get out of the danger zones, but evacuation to save their lives because inadequate physical protection is at hand is one thing and a public warning that will be taken to mean America is not concerned about her nationals is quite another.

Political Basis
Mr. Roosevelt makes most of his decisions on the political basis. He reasons that it is popular today to say "a plague on both your houses" to Japan and China and to say to Americans—"get out of the war zone and keep us out of involvement." The idea of non-involvement is 100 per cent correct. Nobody in America wants war, not even the army or navy. But the view that international relations of a delicate character can be handled by a few carelessly spoken words in a press conference is not conducive to the preservation of peace. European governments read newspapers. So do South American governments. If the government of the United States isn't really interested in protecting the lives and properties of American citizens resident abroad, a policy such as Mr. Roosevelt announced this week can be translated into certain meanings in Europe and South America which become alarming to Americans in all parts of the world.

There are many measures short of war which a government can take to protect its citizens traveling or domiciled abroad. But the first and most important of these is not to send notice to foreign governments through the press that you don't care very much what happens to your citizens.

The task of a president of the United States in handling foreign affairs in a crisis is a difficult one at best, but long ago it was discovered by other presidents that off-hand comments on international problems are dangerous and that official pronouncements from the government of the United States should be worded explicitly and issued by the president or the secretary of state after due consultation with all the departments of government affected.

It is too bad that Secretary Hull had to spend most of Tuesday pointing out what the president's comment to the press did and did not mean and how Americans must not forget that the marines aren't being withdrawn and that the navy is still on the job in the Far East. It is the implication to be drawn from the president's stay-at-your-own-risk remark and not the substance of the comment itself which will cause uneasiness all over the world wherever American citizens happen to be unless the president's statement is soon supplemented by a strongly worded document promising at least diplomatic protection as well as physical facilities for evacuation for those caught in war areas by circumstances beyond their own control.

Horse Population On Badger Farms In Upward Trend

Average Price of $133 Per Head Is $3 Higher Than Last Year

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—In this day of mechanized farming, when it would be supposed that gasoline power driven machinery, automobiles and motor trucks have ended the once important role of old Dobbin, he is actually making a comeback, according to the state and federal crop reporting service.

The service this week showed figures to show that Wisconsin farmers, at least, are once more showing an interest in horse raising, and that the estimate of horse population reflects a gradual increase in Wisconsin during the last three years. At the beginning of the year there were 531,000 horses in the state, not enough for last spring's demand, apparently, for larger numbers than usual were shipped in from other states.

"With the increasing demands for good work horses," the service said, "the prices this spring were the highest in recent years."

"Although there has been some decrease in the farm price of horses since spring work began, the average price for the state during August was $133 per head, which was an increase of $3 over the price a year ago. The farm value of Wisconsin's horses has risen rapidly during the past four years, and is now estimated at about 70 million dollars," the report concluded.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Feature Service Writer
New York —(U)—Fire insurance records prove that fish bowls standing in sunlight near windows, act as burning glasses that occasionally start fires. But persons who use a hot tungsten light to project lantern pictures on screens often take the heat out of the rays with a rounded jar of water and never have any "burning glass" troubles.

The two experiences are contradictory. An investigation, giving the reason, said to be the first one published, is reported in Science by Karl S. vanDyke of Wesleyan university.

Long rays of light do not pass through water. The long rays contain most of the heat. Tungsten lamp rays are mostly the long ones, but the sun has not only the long but a huge mass of short rays.

The short rays pass through water. Although not so hot as the long rays, they burn when sufficiently focused. In Dr. vanDyke's laboratory a water jar on a window sill burned the woodwork, in spring and fall, for one hour a day, for 10 years. The rest of the year the angle of sunlight was wrong and there was no burning.

ANTI-SUICIDE CLUB
Sacramento, Calif.—(U)—A statewide campaign against suicide, to be waged through the press and by radio, was announced here with the incorporation of The Suicide Prevention Society of America.

Under the direction of Robert Rehkgel of Oakland, the group has been campaigning there against suicide for more than a year. Rehkgel says that a number of despondent persons already have been talked out of ending their lives. The "dominant" is the name given on the fifth note in any scale.

MR. LEWIS AND HIS CONTRACT

The CIO chieftain writes a very readable speech. His words are selected carefully for their musical qualities and tonal effects. In this respect Mr. Lewis seems to have followed the course set so successfully by the President.

But Mr. Lewis is ever an agitator or nothing. Even when he uses quiet words they carry a prodigious exaggeration. His characterization of a statement made by Mr. Green recently as "droolings from the pallid lips of a traitor" was as good as anything General Johnson ever wrote, even his "ants in your pants" speech.

But the fact is that traitors do not drool. Imbeciles do.

The same absence of veracity, the marked lack of exactness, the careful, although subtle, exaggeration, is manifest in every paragraph that Mr. Lewis writes.

For instance there is his blunt implication that the President "supped at Labor's table" and was "sheltered in Labor's house"—all to the tune of $600,000 collected by the great impresario himself,—and the most important thing he did for his shelter and food was "a curse" issued from the White House and aimed impartially at both capital and labor in the Youngstown steel struggle.

There is enough to complain about with Mr. Roosevelt without reaching for a raw untruth or turning a slap into a curse. The President cursed no one. He repeated with approval Mr. Taft's quotation from Shakespeare, "A plague on both your houses" which Mr. Lewis knows full well is the equivalent of "You both give me a pain in the neck."

But, we think the public would be very much interested in knowing just exactly what the agreement was between the President and Mr. Lewis when the $600,000 was planted on the line.

If Mr. Lewis is going to join with that substantial army which has complained of the President's failure to keep agreements he will never be lonesome.

But if there were no specific contract by Mr. Roosevelt who shall say that he has not given the CIO its money's worth? What does Fuhrer Jawn want anyway? The President has bruised the supreme court, damned the United States Chamber of Commerce, cursed economic royalists, loaded the country with debt and given labor such a one-sided Wagner Act that it is a question in a great many working men's minds whether men who like to be fuhrers haven't too much authority or just exactly what is the advantage of Fuhrer Jawn over Tom Girdler with his snapping jaws and all!

The people are unable to judge the controversy between Mr. Lewis and the President until we have some more facts. Perhaps it is drool that is dripping from the lips of Lewis himself. Perhaps he is the reincarnation of a Shylock insisting upon every drop of blood with his pound of flesh.

If the worthy gentleman would quit painting pictures, whether of traitors or of angels, and tell of his contract with Mr. Roosevelt we might the better judge who got trimmed.

BUT WINTER WILL NEVER COME

The sky is becoming darker over the Mediterranean.

The conflict in the Orient is thick with international dangers.

The peace of the world must remain menaced and precarious so long as these blazing conditions exist since they may spread at any moment like wild fire.

Yet America makes not the slightest effort of any consequence to put its house in order.

With the national debt already above 37 billions, the speed of spending actually increases and the profligacy of the government makes it a partner in conduct of young Manville, who has no excuse for his philandering but the bottle.

Our national debt has more than doubled since 1920. How will we be placed if war comes to the world and wrecks our trade?

And how will we take care of ourselves if we are forced or become enmeshed in the war itself or find ourselves under a president whose word isn't worth any more than Japan's?

The grasshopper says that winter will never come.

He perishes in the autumn.

SHEBOYGAN'S SHERIFF GETS A MANDATE

When Clark Hazelwood, Milwaukee county assistant corporation counsel, met Joseph Drepe, Sheboygan county sheriff, the meeting place was unfortunate for the former because in the jurisdiction of the latter.

To hear each tell about what the other did will not enlarge confidence in those dressed in a little brief authority, but undressed so far as judgment in the use of that authority is concerned.

The sheriff claims the lawyer's car was ahead of him on the road near Plymouth and that although the official siren screamed out its command for all and sundry to get in the ditch, there was no obedience, at which fact, such contempt of law and authority and the person of the sheriff to boot, high anger tingled through the muscled frame of him who was the county's chief law enforcement officer.

This flouting of authority must be smacked down, so the Milwaukee lawyer is arrested, handcuffed, and brought to town. The fire to which the sheriff was going was abandoned to give attention to the more important offense. It is a case of lese majesty. Neither a Hohenzollern nor a sheriff can brook conduct that does not salute when sirens blow and the great of the earth pass by.

The episode is worth a law. An act of the legislature should force each county to provide its sheriff with an Oregon Boot or at least a ball and chain. Who knows but that this wild Milwaukee lawyer, riding with his fiancée, might not have broken loose from mere handcuffs? Even now the G-men might be scouring the swamps for the villain. And remember, a sheriff to whom is not given the added labor of returning those who break from custody might find time to investigate that peculiar tinkle, whir, and plunk that grinds into grating gloom the slot machine's galloping glory.

To the tender mercy of court and jury, civilization's soothing ointment for all ordinary bruises, may be left the decision of the damage action instituted by the lawyer for battery and abuse of authority and by the sheriff for forceful resistance plus another battery.

No one was present at this knightly joust but the lawyer and his fiancée on the one side, and the sheriff with his two burly deputies on the other. But there is a chance to make a satisfactory deduction nevertheless, and we opine that that deduction will be made very generally everywhere. It relates to the haughty comicality upon authority of an officer and two deputies handcuffing and parading a citizen, whoever he was, and even if their story of the fresh lip he gave and the contempt he showed by lighting a cigaret in their august presence were entirely true. Handing handcuffs and a gun to some officers is like giving a skyrocket to a six-year-old. You just don't know when the roof is coming off the kitchen.

Sheriff Drepe and his two burly deputies—deputies are always burly—should travel in a caravan. A truck loaded with chain, gags, and Oregon Boots ought to quiet anyone who forgets the proper conduct when the heavens are rent by the screaming of the sheriff's siren.

But Sheboygan's district attorney has found solid authority for sustaining the sheriff. He told the justice at Sheboygan Falls who was trying a misdemeanor action against the Milwaukee attorney instituted by the sheriff that "We should uphold our sheriff, the protector of our county" to which he added a glistening pearl of wisdom when he declared that the people of Sheboygan had "showed their confidence in the veracity of the sheriff when they elected him."

Now we are getting down to the bedrock through which even diamond drills will not penetrate. Here is a chance to balance and mull over the "mandate" received by that sacred inner circle composed of those who win elections.

Perhaps the gullible citizen expected the elected person, from sheriff to president, to keep his promises, or at least maintain the law. The thought, however, is obnoxious to the "sacred circle." And he who dares lift his voice in protest or his finger in warning or even his eyebrows in a question mark is a traitor of some sort and must be brought into subjection.

If a glass of water were poured into the Atlantic Ocean and thoroughly mixed with the water of the ocean it would be impossible to dip up a glassful containing none of the original molecules.

At least 150 deposits of various minerals are contained in a strip of land 200 miles long and 15 to 60 miles wide in the Katanga district of the Belgian Congo.

Some African savages still believe that white men are the ghosts of black men, that all deaths from diseases are caused by evil spirits, and that apes are a race of human beings.

THE WISCONSIN WEATHERMAN

THE Wisconsin weatherman is an eccentric cuss . . . all last week he baked and steamed us and all last week we gazed with longing eyes at the approaching double holiday when, even if we did have to stay in, we could do it away from the office, which is always a lot better . . . meanwhile, the Informal Committee for Cooling Off picked the Door County peninsula, a district which is always cooler than the rest of the state during a hot spell . . . came the day of departure . . . came the break in the weather . . . came chilliness in large quantities . . . and, as you may well believe, the Door County peninsula is also cooler than the rest of the state during a cool spell . . . the Wisconsin weatherman is an eccentric cuss . . .

A while back I noted that Ezekiel Sodbuster, that great leader of Democrats, was in agreement with the New York Republicans by picking Mayor LaGuardia to repeat in the coming New York election. At that time, I had recalled a recent editorial in the arch-Republican New York Herald Tribune, backing LaGuardia.

Since then, I've heard hardly a word from Zeke, and I wonder if his feelings were hurt.

The way things are now, some of the Republicans are backing LaGuardia, the Republican-Democrat-Progressive-Radical, and the rest are pulling for Senator Copeland, the Democrat, and things are very confused indeed.

That leaves me both right and wrong, in Zeke's case, and just as confused as the New York political scene.

Now that schools have opened, the vacation for those of us who must drive near school buildings is also over. Tuesday morning started things off just where they were last spring. From now on it's school-traffic nerves in large quantities.

The local high school building, incidentally, will pass into oblivion as a great mystery to me. I never will figure out how all of those folks get into a place that size.

It's hard to keep the better half contented when she sees such things as that big yacht, belonging to a wealthy Milwaukeean, anchored up in Eagle Bay.

Still, there is no greater luxury than loafing in the sun on a practically becalmed sailboat.

The trick now will be to persuade the Green Bay people that the All-Star game was a good idea. With the impetus half of the passing attack laid up as a result of the game, it may be difficult for the Packers to come around to the point of winning another championship. And being invited to play in next year's All-Star game.

Within the next few days we will be able to read the rubber stamp stories about the activities in college football practices. And will we read them all with solemn interest?

We will.

A Verse for Today

WINTER IN THE HEART

The chill of winter falls across
The golden promise of the day.
The summer dies; the swift winds toss
The leaves they soon will blow away.

The shadow of approaching grief
Falls sometimes on my happy heart.
And I can see the plaintive leaf
Upon its autumn journey start.

But I will take this summer hour
And hold it closely, tenderly.
And clasp Joy's lovely fading flower
That sorrow's hand may snatch from me.

Personal Health Talks

FIFTY YEARS OF SLAVERY

Reader aged 64 years says he wrote a few weeks ago for booklet "The Constipation Habit" he had hoped there would be some suggestion as to the advisability of trying my method under any and all circumstances, but since there was not he writes to ask if it is always advisable to try my method, for instance, and then follows an autobiography of which the salient feature seems to be fifty years of slavery. "I think I have not missed a day in fifty years when I have not taken some kind of laxative."

The poor geek.

Abysmal is the word for it, the "educated" layman's abysmal ignorance of human physiology. It would not be so bad if he did not glory in his ignorance and parade it as a mark of culture and refinement. Yes, he does; the boorishness of the so-called intelligentsia about the body's functions is notorious.

Fifty years or fifty hours, it makes no difference at all. The motor function, peristaltic movement of the bowel is wholly controlled by the autonomic or sympathetic nervous system, just as the motor function of the circulation and the respiration are. It doesn't matter how much or how frequently you interfere with this automatic regulation; as soon as you cease interfering and the effect of the interference wears off, the natural autonomic control will be resumed just as the you had never interfered at all.

That is as clearly and as simply as I can teach this lesson in physiology. If you are so hopelessly dumb that you can't understand it, why, I'm sorry for you but perhaps you had better go back to your pills. Your moral fibre is weak. Your intelligence is more suited to the purpose of the restrum and quackery trade.

There is one suggestion I can offer anybody who intends to overcome the constipation habit. Begin a week or two beforehand building up intestinal vigor. I mean physiologically and not in the slang sense. Begin supplementing your ordinary deficient diet with a daily ration of vitamins B, G and D, B and G, as in wheat germ or in brewer's yeast (yeast for baking is comparatively poor in vitamins), is beneficial for this purpose, giving better "tone" to the stomach and intestine; but the addition of D, by irradiating dried brewer's yeast with ultraviolet light of certain wave-length, distinctly increases the invigorating effect.

Whether you are personally interested in this common complaint or not, it is well to understand that the intestine or bowel can no more be influenced by habit than can the heart or the lungs.

There is ample experimental and clinical evidence to indicate that vitamin B and vitamin D in combination overcome hypomotility or sluggishness and undue irritability of stomach and bowel better than either vitamin alone.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Calendar Cure For Bed-Wetting

Give the child a small calendar, to keep beside the bed. Each dry night is to be recorded by one mark (say a blue pencil mark or circle around the date) and each wet night is to be recorded by a different mark, say a red pencil mark or a cross thru the date. This is most effective when a group of children carry it out more or less in competition. Parents may have instructions for correction of bed-wetting on request inclose a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address.

Flat Feet

Boy, seven, has flat feet. Does going barefoot help, or should he be kept in corrective shoes all the time? Corrective shoes very expensive. (Mrs. J. E. D.)

Sunshine

Please tell me what vitamins sunshine contains. (Mrs. E. M. W.)

Answer—None. The invisible ultraviolet rays of sunlight convert ergosterol in the skin into vitamin D, which is vitamin D.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If September 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 to 11:15 a. m., from 3:15 to 5:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:15 to 8:15 a. m., from 6:15 to 8:15 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight.

If anything unexpected happens this day, it will come to you as a great surprise, and probably will be a pleasant one. It might be well to make any engagement subject to a change, just in case that something might prevent your keeping it. A letter may bring you some good news, or worthwhile information. Through friendship you may be placed in a position to add materially to your worldly possessions. So listen to suggestions this day. You are likely to find a good many people to be in a preachy mood this day, and it might be good judgment to accept what they have to say good naturedly. There will be many temptations to spend money, and it will be advisable to think twice before you part with any of it for something you may not need. Married and engaged couples, as well as those matrimonially ambitious, must watch their tempers this day, for sudden outbursts are going to be responsible for much of the day's unhappiness.

If a woman and September 9 is your birthday, you may be only one of many, born on this date, that are not understood by relatives and friends. An artistic nature, combined with an extremely sensitive disposition and a quick temper, is apt to keep you in hot water most of the time. Talented in many ways, the versatility of many born on this day, through lack of proper training, frequently proves a handicap instead of a blessing. If you can concentrate on one thing for which you have a special aptitude, and endeavor to develop that faculty to the highest degree of perfection. The stage, pulpit, lecture platform, radio, literary field or schoolroom might provide just the right background to enable your genius to shine forth gloriously. If you can keep from being too temper-mental, your married life ought to be a very happy one.

A child born on September 9, during its adolescence, possibly will display exceptionally fine histrionic ability. Generally not of a very studious nature, special efforts may be required to interest this youngster in the importance of the absorption of schoolroom knowledge. Properly trained this child ought to have a brilliant future.

If a man and September 9 is his natal day, your great danger is in finding yourself in the position of a round peg in a square hole. Make every effort to engage in work of a congenial nature, and for which you feel you have the qualifications required to do successfully. As a clergyman, actor, writer, musician, artist, salesman, promoter, politician or manufacturer your opportunities to succeed are unlimited.

Successful People Born on September 9:

Joseph Leidy, physician and naturalist.
Elliott Coues, scientist.
Maurice Thompson, author.
Alfred Lee, first P. E. Bishop of Lawrence.
Eleazer Lord, financier and author.
Richard Riker, lawyer and politician.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Among the more entertaining young men who have been around New York in recent weeks is Count Rossi, the Italian speed boat and vermuth king.

The slim, hollow-waisted visitor is a cheery chap with a near Oxford accent, although he never attended Oxford, his education having been obtained wholly in his homeland.

"Someone else asked me about that," he smiled pleasantly. "I suppose I speak this way because I have been fortunate in knowing so many delightful Americans and Englishmen."

"What about those two fast boats you brought over?"

"They are very fast," he admitted, "though I can't say which of the two I prefer. One has a shade more speed but the other sets better in the water . . . The temperature of the water and the day always determine which I shall drive."

These craft, by the way, use identical motors, although one boat is about a foot longer. He has, he says, three motors, one being a spare.

Fought in Ethiopia

The count's full name is Theo Rossi di Montelera, a family name that goes back to the days when Italy was largely feudal and dominated by robber barons. His boats are the Ardam and the Alagi, named for two mountains captured during the recent Ethiopian campaign. Count Rossi himself was all through the campaign and took part in the assaults on Mounts Ardam and Alagi.

When we talked with him he was leaning against the rail of a "patio" some 26 stories above the sidewalks, balancing a plate of pate de foies gras and helping it along with a dram of his own Rossi martini.

Was speed-boat racing a hair-raising business?

"Yes, when you capsize. Sometimes I am driven into the water with such force that I dive down 15 or 20 feet before turning towards the surface."

Was he glad to be in America?

"Oh, yes, and very proud to be the first foreigner to enter the American Gold Cup races."

Life Leaves No Marks

Formerly these have been closed affairs, but foreigners are now admitted if they are sponsored by an American concern.

"It is such a pleasant diversion from the year after year rounds of racing at Stresa, Paris, and other European courses."

The count, I would say, is close to five feet eleven, weighing approximately 175 pounds.

Wars and hard campaigning with dare-devil exploits in the water and air have left no trace on this young man's serene countenance.

But there wasn't a hair ruffled. He looked like a movie actor on location.

A Bystander In Washington
BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Railroads in olden days gave passes to state legislators and congressmen and paid the cost of junkies to points of interest until the thing became somewhat of a national scandal. Laws put an end to that type of railroad good-will building.

But now the colonies, Hawaii and the Philippines, have found a new wrinkle of the old game. They finance all-expense visits by members of congress, entertain them lavishly and seek to induce in them, a sympathetic understanding of island problems.

That view of it may be a trifle harsh on the islands. Weary members of congress and their wives, sons and daughters may be entitled to the relaxations the insular possessions provide. What better contribution could the islands make, in that case, than to provide a sea cruise to soothe senatorial souls? Or the placid peace of an island beach to heal congressional scars?

Islands Foot Bill

Perhaps the islands have no second string motives. It is easily remembered that the railroads insisted they have no motive other than to oblige when they supplied railroad passes to state legislators.

Two score or more members of both houses made the tour of the Philippines 18 months ago, headed by Vice President Garner. This summer a dozen or more are going to Hawaii. The Philippine government footed the bill on the first trip, and in keeping with this now established custom, the Hawaiian government will pay the way of the visitors headed for the white sands of Waikiki.

At this point it is well to mention items of interest about the islands and their legislative problems. When gold was revalued in 1934, the Philippine government had about $56,000,000 on deposit in American banks as currency reserve. The Philippines claimed the $23,000,000 profit resulting from revaluing gold, although by law the family nest egg of the average American was paid back only dollar for dollar.

Congress saw it the Philippine way in 1934 and approved payment but in 1935 refused to appropriate money to pay. Senator Adams of Colorado tried in 1936, the year of the Philippine tour, to put through an act repealing the Philippine claim. The senate agreed with him, although it was in conflict with administration wishes; but the bill was never taken up in the house, and the claim still stands. Adams won senate approval again this last session and the bill is still pending in the house, awaiting action next session. The islands also are interested in sugar quotas and import taxes.

Idea for States

Hawaii is a special interest in sugar legislation, hoping that the next session congress will give the island refiners a lift by permitting them to ship to the United States a larger quota of refined sugar.

These all-expense visits may have little or no effect in obtaining a friendly vote from congress. But if they do, why shouldn't Florida finance an all-expense trip for congress in an effort to get her ship canal? Or Maine put 'em up for two weeks at Bar Harbor in return for Passamaquoddy power?

That is an entertaining prospect.

Methodist Laymen Elect Officers at State Conference

Officials of Ministerial Section are Confirmed Today

Election of officers for the laymen's conference and confirmation of election of officers of the ministerial conference were highlights of this morning's meetings in the Wisconsin annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in progress here. Officers of the ministerial group were chosen at the close of the conference last year and confirmed today.

Appointments to the ministerial conference which were confirmed this morning were as follows: the Rev. Edward T. Soper, Hartford, secretary; the Rev. Clifford M. Fritz, Delavan, statistician; the Rev. William A. Riggs, Lake Mills, treasurer. The statistician announced the following assistants: the Rev. James Buxton, the Rev. Roy P. Steen, the Rev. Dempster Wandschneider, the Rev. E. T. De Selms, the Rev. John Vande Trapp and the Rev. Martin Vance. Assistants to the treasurer include the Rev. Guy Wilkinson, the Rev. David Johnson, the Rev. Cecil Dawson, the Rev. John H. Walker, the Rev. Walter Holliday, the Rev. Lyle Stephenson, the Rev. Donald Stannard and the Rev. Francis Foulke.

L. S. Dancy, of Carroll college, Waukesha, was reelected president of the laymen's conference at a meeting this morning at Emmanuel Evangelical church, and Fred G. Holtz, Columbus, was returned to office as treasurer, while Mrs. Kenneth Morrell, Milwaukee, was chosen secretary.

The Rev. N. J. Alderson, Manawa, was chosen postmaster and the Rev. Carl Hagen, Merrill, reporter for the entire session.

Discuss Camp Work
Discussion as to the handling of the work at Camp Byron led to a motion that a committee of five be appointed from the membership at large to meet with the board of education to consider the program and plan for Camp Byron. The committee will consist of the president of the laymen's association, Women's Home Missionary society, Women's Foreign Missionary society, the chairman of the board of ministerial training, and one additional member.

A gavel was presented to Bishop J. Ralph Magee, presiding officer of the conference, at this morning's session by the Rev. Carl Wiese in the name of the Rev. J. A. Holmes, South Bend, Ind., formerly pastor of the Appleton church.

Preceding the opening of the conference this morning, a devotional address on "The Open Personality" was given by Bishop Magee, the first of a series which he will give each morning this week. He expressed the view that an open personality is one which is capable of throwing off the restrictions such as jealousy, envy, deceit, gossip, ignorance, unworthy emotions, and stubbornness, and opening up new channels of expression so that the unworthy ones are crowded out.

Evans Gives Sermon
"The opening of a personality comes more through absorption from a larger personality than any other way," said Bishop Magee, "and therefore the need for worship. The purpose of the religion of Jesus Christ is to give an opportunity for personality to emerge."

The Rev. Richard Evans, Janesville, former district superintendent of Appleton district and resident of Appleton, in a memorial sermon at the close of the morning's session, brought out the idea that a memorial service should be an occasion of gladness and rejoicing rather than one of sadness, for Christians should feel that their departed brothers and sisters are safe home in port, that they are not dead but "live the life abundant."

He said that there is a disposition to come back to the spirit of hope, beauty and glory of the life beyond and to emphasize the joyous side of dying instead of the sadness.

Dr. Evans expressed the opinion that a generation or two ago people talked too much about Heaven and not enough about making a Heaven on earth, but he put the question, "Have we now come to the other extreme?" He closed by reiterating his belief in immortality, adding that the strongest evidence of it lies in the fact that Jesus Christ, who had spiritual wisdom beyond measurement, said, "In my Father's house there are many mansions," and also, "I go to prepare a place for you." The Rev. Webster Miller, Janesville, presided at the memorial service.

U. of W. Scientists Play Billiards With Atoms

Madison—(P)—University of Wisconsin scientists are playing billiards with atoms. Of course they can't see the atoms, but they have a gadget that keeps score.

An atom, you know, is the smallest particle of a given element—hydrogen gas, for instance—that still can be called by that name.

After they get through breaking up these atoms in the university's atom-buster, the physicists speak of what's left in terms of electricity—negative charges called electrons and particles without any charge called neutrons.

Just to give you an idea how big an atom is 608,000,000,000,000,000,000 (21 zeros) atoms of hydrogen weigh one gram. If you want to know how many of them there are in a pound, multiply that figure by 29, the number of grams in an ounce, and then multiply the result by 16.

To set the scene, visualize a compressed air tank 20 feet long and six feet in diameter. Insulated and inclosed in this steel tank is an atom-buster that carries the world's highest steady voltage yet used in such work—2,700,000 volts, as compared with the ordinary 110-volt electric current used in homes.

Part of the equipment inside is what Dr. Raymond G. Herb, who is in charge of the apparatus in the university physics department, calls a proton gun. It shoots protons—positive charges of electricity—like tiny electrical bullets, at a speed of 15,000 miles a second at a target of hydrogen or whatever element is to be the victim.

In one type of experiment, the research workers note what the atoms break up into—what particles are left. They detect what kinds of particles are given off in the process through different shaped variations of a green line which an amplifying system (something like a radio set) flashes on a small screen.

Mechanical Scorekeeper

Now about this billiard experiment. The scientists are interested in learning how these bullet protons bounce off stationary protons of hydrogen gas—studying the angles as a good billiard player does. So they set up the amplifying equipment to show what direction the bullets take when they carom off like so many billiard balls.

One part of the equipment, a mechanical scorekeeper, counts the number of bullets that scatter in a given direction, and, for observation by eye, another part shows the action through variations in that same green line.

What's to be gained by such information? Well, to begin with, the results will be turned over to other physicists who will calculate the size of protons, the force of attraction—like gravity—which they exert, and their other characteristics.

May Be Of Value

In the realm of physics, study in the past of facts just as obscure has led to their widespread use. The principles on which radio is based, for example, were developed from a few facts discovered in physical laboratories.

In 25 or even 100 years, perhaps, the knowledge gained here may be of inestimable value. Scientists long have speculated on the ultimate use of the tremendous energy of the atom if it could be broken up economically and in sufficient numbers.

In one experiment, the Wisconsin researchers found that gamma rays—X-rays of great intensity—are given off when an element called fluorine is bombarded with protons of 2,000,000-volt energy. Some scientists believe these rays, which are much more intense than those from radium, eventually will play an important role in the treatment of diseases.

Woman Suspect Admits Shooting New Jersey Man

Enters Formal Plea of Not Guilty of Murder at Arraignment

Iselin, N. J.—(P)—A 20-year-old school girl admitted after hours of questioning today, Police Chief George E. Keating announced, that she fatally shot Paul Reeves, 25-year-old father of two children, when he attempted to assault her.

The Woodbridge township chief gave the girl's name as Margaret Drennan and said she was a student at a New Brunswick secretarial school. She was the "lady in red," Keating said, who was seen running from the bungalow where Reeves was shot to death in his bedroom last night.

Five feet three inches tall, shapely and pretty, she radiated confidence at her arraignment later before Police Recorder Arthur Brown. Charged with murder, she entered a formal plea of innocent and was held without bail for grand jury action.

Parents Weep

Her father and mother wept during the brief proceedings but the girl consoled them. She told her attorney, David I. Stepacoff, she was sure she'd be cleared.

She had been taken into custody after Reeves, a laborer employed at an Elizabeth Copper Products plant, was found dying in his room. His children, Paul, 5, and Emma, 2, were found whimpering and cowering under the sheets in their adjoining bedroom.

Young and pretty, Mrs. Myra Reeves was called by police from a Railway theater, reaching her husband a few minutes before he died in a hospital.

Used Father's Gun

Keating quoted the Drennan girl as saying she went to Reeves' home because Reeves threatened to reveal their previous love trysts to her family if she failed to do so.

The young woman, the chief said, used a .32 caliber automatic owned by her father. The gun, Keating added, was found in a dresser drawer in her bedroom at her parents' home.

Reeves, Keating said, was shot once in the abdomen and once in the foot.

Warns Against Violations of Hauling Charges

Commissioner Tells Milk Dealers Licenses Will Be Revoked

Dealers and producers were warned at a hearing yesterday that violation of the state department of agriculture and markets' orders pertaining to milk hauling charges will be dealt with by revocation of licenses and also by bringing violations to the court's attention.

The warning was given by Commissioner F. Schultheiss, who conducted the hearing relative to setting retail milk prices on farms in area boundaries, setting one price for drinks made from milk and creation of a fund to promote consumption of milk.

Commissioner Schultheiss said that Judge Edgar J. Werner recently decided the cases of the state against the Outagamie Milk and Produce company and Potts, Wood and company, upholding the contentions of the department relative to violations of the order pertaining to hauling charges.

The court issued injunctions against the companies restraining them from further violation of the department's orders and indicated that producers accepting prices other than ordered would be just as much a violator as the dealer.

Here's What to Do When Someone Drinks Poison

1. Call a doctor.
2. Try to get the victim to vomit.
3. Feed him a "bland" mixture of milk, eggs, et cetera.
4. Look at the bottle—if you're sure which one it was—to see if any antidote is listed.
5. Use artificial respiration if necessary after treatment.

By The AP Feature Service
THIS is what Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, president of the New York City Children's Welfare federation, would do in such an emergency.

When you call the doctor, he says, tell him what the victim has taken if you can so he'll know what kind of an antidote to bring. Starch solutions may be used against iodine; soap solutions or baking soda in water for most acids.

Stick your finger down the victim's throat, if you have to, to get him to vomit. And it's a good idea to roll him in a blanket while you're working over him to keep his arms and legs from striking you.

An added precaution: always keep poisonous substances in clearly marked bottles stored as far back on the medicine closet shelf as possible.

Situation in Brief In Sino-Jap Strife

Shanghai—(P)—The Sino-Japanese score:

Shanghai—An estimated 60,000 Japanese troops held their slight gains against a Chinese force of 350,000. Japan's objective—driving Chinese troops from Shanghai area—thus far has resulted in Japanese occupation of a wedge-shaped area along the Yangtze, north of Shanghai, and the Hongkew sector within Shanghai itself. Chinese held industrial Pootung, across the river from Shanghai. Parts of Chinese sections have been devastated. Japan had 60,000 troops ready to land.

North China—A Japanese expeditionary force of 100,000 men has conquered 10,000 square miles of Hopeh and Chahar provinces and taken control of Peiping and Tientsin. Autonomous regimes under Japanese domination have been set up. Chinese threatened Japanese positions along the right flank in hills west of Peiping, with Japanese advancing slowly. Chinese troops in the area were estimated to number 200,000.

Seacoast—An estimated 100 Japanese warships bottled up Chinese shipping along the coast from Manchouguo to Indo-China. Many Chinese coastal towns have been bombed.

conference scheduled for Friday should convict Italy of piracy in the Mediterranean. Russia also took sideswipes at Italy's fascist ally, Germany, in her note accepting the Anglo-French invitation to the conference.

Cabinet Meeting
The British cabinet was called in to special session today to consider the cross-play of European rivalries born of Spain's civil war—a crisis that threatened to spread the conflict.

Meanwhile, any belief in London that the mystery vessels which have terrorized Mediterranean trade routes with guns and torpedoes had decided to "lay off" was shattered by a torpedo attack on the British tanker Harpa.

The 3,000-ton vessel was attacked last night by "an unknown battleship" off the coast of North Africa, an agent of Lloyd's, the maritime underwriting firm, reported from Tunis. The Harpa was enroute from Port Said, Egypt, to Tunis, the message said, when a torpedo slithered toward her waterline.

The torpedo missed its mark and the frightened crew drove the Harpa into La Goulette, not far from Tunis.

Tanker Halted
In another corner of the Mediterranean, near the fortified Italian island of Rhodes in the southeastern part of the Aegean sea, the British-registered tanker Pegasus of the Socony-Vacuum Oil company reported it had been halted by an unidentified submarine.

After the challenge yesterday the tanker was permitted to proceed, an oil company announcement said at Istanbul. British authorities wrestled the master of the Pegasus for further details.

The admiralty confirmed that the Pegasus had been halted but said it

A total of 11,425 books were circulated at the library during the month of August, according to a report submitted by Mrs. Nancy Thomas, librarian. Juvenile circulation totaled 3,497 while 7,497 adult books were distributed.

There were 301 books added during the month making a total of 37,876 volumes on the library shelves and 213 persons were registered making a total of 12,914 borrowers, 459 of which are from outside of Appleton.

Regional Boys' Work Committee Convenes

The first meeting of the newly organized Y. M. C. A. committee on area boys' work will be held at the Appleton Y. M. C. A. this afternoon. Members of the committee are Dr. H. F. Lewis, Appleton; Edward Zeller, general secretary at Dubuque, Iowa; S. D. Miller, area program secretary; Don Newton, Madison; Earl Hunting, St. Paul; and Harry Gochbauer, Green Bay. States included in the area are North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

the tanker reported that the submarine was flying the Spanish insurgent flag.

These incidents served only to increase Britain's determination to reach a speedy and practical agreement at the "anti-piracy" conference to be held in the peaceful Swiss surroundings of Nyon, a town near Geneva.

Rome—(P)—Soviet Russia flatly told Italy today that the fascist answer to charges that Italian submarines had sunk two Russian ships in the Mediterranean was unsatisfactory and repeated the grave accusation made in her original note.

The second soviet note in the suddenly more serious Mediterranean crisis growing out of the Spanish civil war was handed to Count Caltanissetta, Premier Mussolini's foreign minister and son-in-law, just before noon.

The terse communication was considerably briefer than the first and was considered much sharper than the original demand that the "intolerable" situation be ended and the soviet be paid reparations for the two lost vessels.

Italy had angrily rejected the Russian charge and refused to accept the demands "en bloc."

Soviet Officials Confer
The Russian embassy in Rome was instructed to present the stronger accusation after a night conference of high soviet officials in Moscow.

Diplomatic circles considered that there was grave doubt of either Italian or German participation in the conference called by Great Britain and France to meet Friday to devise means of stamping out the "piratical" attacks on commercial shipping in the Mediterranean.

Il Duce's mouthpiece, the newspaper Il Popolo d'Italia, said in a dispatch from London that Italy would find it impossible to attend the conference at Nyon, Switzerland, "if Russia attends." Diplomatic circles consider the dispatch was a practical declaration of Italian policy despite its London origin.

American Policy In Sino-Jap War Won't be Changed

U. S. Wants Citizens to Quit Danger Zones but Won't Yield Rights

Washington—(P)—Officials said today the state department was holding to its earlier policy in the Sino-Japanese conflict, and that while this government wishes American nationals to get out of danger zones it has no intention of surrendering any rights in China.

The department sent assurances to American business men at Shanghai who pleaded in a cablegram against any abandonment of American position in the Far East. Officials said the American Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai apparently had mistaken the intent of a statement by president Roosevelt to the effect that Americans remaining in areas where there is shooting and bombing did so "at their own risk. The government, it was said, has urged Americans to leave dangerous sectors.

Secretary Hull refused direct comment on the president's statement or the protest. He said merely that American policy has been clearly outlined and that there had been no change.

Senator Connally (D-Texas) commented that Americans in China are duty-bound to flee danger zones. He said they owe it to "fellow citizens in the United States who would have to do the fighting and the sacrificing and the suffering if it war should come."

"The people in the United States do not want another war and are determined to have one," he added.

Would Avoid War
Representative Hamilton Fish (R-N. Y.), ranking minority party member of the house foreign affairs committee, said in a statement at Colorado Springs, Colo., that President Roosevelt should invoke the neutrality act at once to avoid war with Japan.

The commerce department reported business in Shanghai, major port of the undeclared war, is virtually dead.

The state department sent word to heads of consulates at Amoy and Foochow to close their doors unless there was an early and definite improvement in their areas from the standpoint of safety.

Japanese airmen have bombed both Amoy and Foochow recently. Officials of the Seventh Day Adventist church awaited a report on damage to their compound in Shanghai, which they said the Japanese have taken over.

Bearing on the Sino-Japanese conflict was the disclosure from government shipping records that during the first seven months of 1937 Japan bought 1,529,111 tons of scrap iron in the United States. The shipments were more than twice as large as in the corresponding period last year. Officials said much of the scrap undoubtedly went into war munitions.

Reappoint Weber For 6-Year Term On Sewage Board

Council Names Mayer to Continue Service on Water Commission

Menasha—Armin Weber was reappointed to the city sewage commission for a term of 6 years and Tony Mayer was reappointed to the water and light commission for a 5 year term at the meeting of the city council at the city hall last night. Alderman M. J. Grode, president of the council, presided at the meeting.

After attending to routine business matters, the council voted to adjourn to 6:30 Friday evening when bills will be audited. A session of the council will follow at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Alderman Clement Newcomb, chairman of the streets committee, reported that the railroad crossings were in bad condition and that the railroads had done nothing about it. The council voted to give the railroads five days time to repair the crossings, after which the city will do the work and charge the railroads.

Upon recommendation of the public building committee the council voted to purchase 100 tons of coal from the Menasha Building Supply company at $7.94 a ton. There were five bids submitted. As only one bid on time for the city grader was submitted, the matter was held open until the adjourned meeting. No bids were received for the house owned by the city at Mathewson and Garfield avenue.

Councilmen were put "upon their honor" by M. J. Grode, president of the council, to observe faulty sidewalks in their wards and to report them as soon as possible. Notice has been given by the city that all sidewalks must be repaired. The sidewalk at the Menasha Furniture company was condemned and a new sidewalk with a step will be placed as soon as waivers are secured from the property owners.

A petition from 21 residents in the vicinity of 754 De Pere street that a beer depot be licensed at that location was referred to the planning committee. Bartenders' licenses were granted to Roman Steffen, Garfield Yost, and Eldon J. Mueller.

The license of the Neenah Taxi line was extended for one year upon payment of the fee. The Neenah-Menasha sewage commission was granted permission to transport liquid chlorine, necessary in the operation of the disposal plant, over the Menasha street.

Invite Officials to Meeting at Fond du Lac

A meeting of the resolutions committee of the league and a banquet will precede the convention on Sept. 15. The council voted to have Mayor Held appoint a delegate to accompany him, expenses to be paid by the city. The city is a member of the league.

Judge Tells Club To Study Traffic Code Penalties

Hughes Warns Lions Against Pleas of Guilty "For Convenience"

Neenah—Municipal Judge Henry P. Hughes, Oshkosh, warned members of the Lions club against entering pleas of guilty "for convenience" when charged with traffic violations when assigned in convict in a talk at the noon meeting of the club Tuesday.

The jurist advised the Lions club members that should they be charged with alleged minor offenses they should seek counsel before making their plea if they have a reasonable doubt as to their guilt.

Before entering a plea the defendants should first understand the nature of the offense for which they are charged as well as acquainted themselves with a knowledge of the consequences which will incur upon conviction, the judge further advised.

Affect Insurance

Besides heavy fines and court costs such offenses as reckless and drunken driving and 47 other offenses carry suspension of drivers' licenses as well as additional costs to insure a premium. In the case of a conviction of reckless driving 10 per cent is added to the premium cost on automobile insurance, while from 50 to 100 per cent is added in case of a conviction of drunken driving, according to Judge Hughes. Passing another car on a curve with visibility less than 1,000 feet also carries an additional charge to insure premiums as well as a severe penalty, he added.

The judge explained the state court system, stating that the supreme and circuit courts were provided for in the state constitution while the legislature created the county and municipal courts.

The municipal court is a high bred court of general utility, according to Judge Hughes' definition.

Reports were made by the various members on the Lions club labor day celebration.

City to Condemn Land for Site of Generating Plant

Council Authorizes Action To Obtain 8 Wooden Ware Lots

Menasha—Authorization to start condemnation proceedings against the Menasha Wooden Ware company for eight lots in block 50 of the Second ward, site of the proposed municipal steam generating plant, was granted City Attorney Edward C. McKeenize at the meeting of the common council last night.

Edward W. Forkin, attorney for the water and light commission, will work with the city attorney. The report of the water and light commission to the council requested the action as the Wooden Ware company refuses to sell the land to the city at a figure deemed reasonable by the commission. Upon motion of Alderman C. J. Oberweiser the authorization was granted.

The proposed site is located on the south bank of the canal and west of the government canal bridge. The property is assessed at $4,000 and improvements at $1,000 on the city books.

Authorization was received from the public service commission to install a new steam generating plant of 3,000 kilowatts at a cost of $385,000 by the city for the sale of electric power and surplus steam, and was acknowledged by the council.

Edward W. Forkin, attorney for the water and light commission, explained that the plant referred to in the communication was one of three alternatives. A plant of 5,000 kilowatt, 2,500 kilowatt, 2,000 kilowatt capacity may ultimately be constructed by the city, depending upon the contracts that can be made with the large industrial users of steam and electricity. A load of nine million kilowatts annually in addition to the load now carried would be necessary to secure the largest plant, he said.

Reject Proposed Sewer Project

Committee Decides Against Continuation of Stevens Street Job

Neenah—A petition requesting that the sanitary sewer installation project on Stevens street be continued and that sewers be installed on Congress boulevard, a proposed street in a new residential section at the east end of the city, was rejected by the committee on public improvements of the city council at a meeting last night at the city hall.

The committee made its decision to reject the petition when City Attorney J. W. O'Leary said he doubted the legality of continuing the Stevens street sewer project.

The attorney explained that installation of sewers in the proposed plat is estimated at $2,800 which is too much to add to a contract. The statutes requires that for all work costing more than $500 bids must be advertised and that the procedure be carried through the proper channels.

The committee also instructed City Clerk H. S. Zemlock to advertise for bids for installation of cables and conduits on N. Commercial street from N. Water street to Nicolet boulevard. The conduits will be placed on both sides of the street which is presently being regraded. The length of cable and conduits will be about 3,600 feet.

Bank Commissioner Urges Depositors to Get Their Dividends

Neenah—William S. Campbell, deputy commissioner who is in charge of the liquidating funds of the defunct Neenah State bank, said today that the general depositors failed to secure their share of the dividends which was declared Dec. 31.

The deputy urged that all those who have not secured the dividends do so immediately.

The final liquidating dividend of 5 per cent and interest on general claims of creditors of the bank was ordered last December by Circuit Judge Fred Beidler on petition of H. F. Bach, commissioner of banking for the state of Wisconsin.

Depositors have been receiving final payments in full, and in addition those having checking accounts or saving deposits are receiving interest at the rate of 2 per cent per annum for the time their money was in the bank. The total amount of the general claim filed was $237,085.56, and there was deposited to the credit of individuals for which no claims were filed the sum of $2,378.37.

All preferred claims were paid in full on Nov. 18, 1933. These amounted to $37,085.07.

Waupaca Council Allows Bill for Disposal Plant

New Oil Mat Jobs and Sewage System Extension Also Given Approval

Waupaca — The common council Tuesday evening allowed a bill of $26,876 for the new sewage disposal plant. Petitions for oil mat jobs and extension of sewage also were granted, and bills for pay rolls, city relief totaling $516.55, and transient relief amounting to $275.55 were allowed.

Paul Dunnewald, assistant engineer to W. G. Kirchhoff, who planned the new plant, reported that construction of the plant has been completed according to contract, and that operators are being trained to care for the equipment properly. Mr. Dunnewald warned the council to have the valves of the digestion tank covered before freezing temperatures arrive.

Discussion ensued as to the placement of the bulkhead of the outflow into the Waupaca river, it being decided to extend the outflow pipe to the middle of the stream in order that the system function regardless of fluctuating water levels.

The floor was then given to citizens who suggested the need for an ordinance restraining dogs at all times during the year. The clerk read Ordinance 105, published in July to take effect Aug. 1, which fines any person, firm or corporation $5 to $50 or imposes 3 to 30 days in jail for letting a dog run wild or disturb the peace. It was decided to have this ordinance published again so that owners of dogs in the city will keep their dogs on leash during the winter as well as during the summer months.

Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, fights Scrap Johnson, a cowboy who molested Kay. Shooting it out, they wound each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a cabin where a girl (Marion) nurses him. Kay sees them together, misunderstands and deliberately gives away the hideout after a fall. Ted is arrested and taken away. Marion's insane father, the firebug turns up.

Chapter 37 The Steel Nail Head

SOMETHING deeper and stronger than the jealous resentment that Kay had been cherishing took possession of her, and with a startled gasp she pulled herself up.

as she suddenly saw the whole situation in a different light.

What did it matter whether he cared for her or the other girl? His very life was in danger, and she was doing nothing to help him! This vital issue surmounted everything else.

What could she do? What could she do? Kay clenched her fists until the nails bit into her palms. She must think of something!

She lay back and concentrated on all she knew of the affair, trying to piece it together, and turn it some way to Ted's advantage. In spite of everything, she still believed him innocent. She shut her eyes, and pictured again the scene of the crime.

Josh Hastings' remark about Ted having crawled to the water flashed back to her, with his hasty explanation that he had only been imagining it. His whole manner

Women Get Golf Awards For Season

PRIZES for the season's golf events were awarded to women of Butte des Morts Golf club today at the last ladies' day of the summer. Mrs. Dan Courtney, women's sports chairman, presented the awards.

High honors went to Mrs. E. H. Foulk, Oshkosh who won both the club championship and the Class A ringer prize for the season. Mrs. Norman Brown was runner-up for the club championship, and Miss Margaret Plank was given the consolation prize. Awards in the first flight went to Mrs. George Koepke, first, Mrs. Lawrence Koepke, runner-up, and Mrs. George Beckley, consolation.

Mrs. George Theiss was second for the Class A ringer prize. Mrs. J. J. Plank and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Rechner, tied for the Class B ringer prize.

With 25 points out of a possible 26, Mrs. H. C. Hilton of Neenah was awarded the golf attendance prize. Mrs. Norman Brown was given the prize for the greatest reduction of handicap.

Tournament Prizes
Awards for the July handicap tournament were also made this afternoon. In the first flight Mrs. August Brandt was winner and Mrs. George Theiss, runner-up; in the second flight, Mrs. George Koepke, winner, and Mrs. Robert Rechner, runner-up; and in the 9-hole flight, Mrs. George Beckley, winner, and Mrs. J. J. Plank, runner-up.

The handicap trophy for Class A could not be awarded today because Mrs. George Theiss and Mrs. August Brandt have yet to play for it. The Class B handicap trophy went to Mrs. Lawrence Koepke, and the Class C trophy, to Mrs. George Woelz.

Because she had a perfect attendance record, Mrs. H. J. C. Rosenow of Menasha was without competition for the bridge attendance prize. Other bridge prizes for the season went to Mrs. David Smith for the best five scores and to Mrs. Stanley Staidl, who was second high.

Because so many of the members of Riverview Country club spent Labor day at the club, a rather slim crowd turned out for ladies' day Tuesday. Prizes at golf were given for low net and low score on odd holes. Mrs. E. L. Bolton won the award for low net with a score of 39 for 9 holes, and Mrs. William C. Wing, Jr., who had 27 for holes 1, 3, 5, 7 and won the prize for low score on odd holes.

The weekly buffet supper and contract bridge party will be held at Riverview Country club Thursday night. Mark Catlin, Jr., will again be in charge of the bridge.

Mrs. Orville Hintz, 1134 W. Spencer street, entertained her schafkopf club last night at her home. Prizes were won by Ramona Schroeder and Mrs. Elmer Jenner.

Mrs. Norman Kalkreuth, the club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Ray Schroeder, 624 E. Commercial street.

Girl Scout Council Maps Finance Drive In City This Month

Plans for the Girl Scout drive, which will be held the latter part of this month, were made at a meeting of the Girl Scout council Tuesday afternoon at the Girl Scout office. F. N. Belanger, who will direct the drive, was present at the meeting and gave suggestions for preparation for the campaign.

Camp reports were given by Mrs. R. M. Atcherson of the camp committee and Miss Dorothy Calnin, local director.

It was announced that troop meetings will be resumed within the next two weeks, with training courses for new leaders as well as for advanced leaders scheduled for the first week in October.

Mrs. W. Ray Chailoner, who attended the opening of the international camp at Camp Andre, New York, gave a report of the conference, which was attended by Girl Scouts from a number of countries. She told of the international parent and of distinguished guests who were present and described other highlights of the camp.

WHITE OAK MILLS BOOM
Harrisburg, Ill. (AP)—Sawmilling, a pioneer industry of this territory, has been revived because Kentucky's distillers need whisky barrels.

Landowners are shipping their white oak to two mills for from $5 to $10 a tree. One of the mills turns out staves and the other barrels. Near 80 men are employed at the two mills, which have a daily capacity of 10,000 barrels.

The white oak, which abounds in this section is a tall tree which requires about 100 years to mature, but officials of the forest service say it is one of the "fast growing" hardwoods. The wood resists water and is also used for shipbuilding and flooring. It is "air-cured" about 90 days before it is shipped to the distiller.

CANOE TRIP IS OVER BUT THE COAT OF TAN STAYS ON

A coat of tan which will be the envy of their friends for many weeks to come and a store of memories which will remain long after that were the principal cargo brought back by these two young women from a 700-mile canoe trip down the Mississippi river from Lake Itasca, Minn., to LaCrosse. Miss Genevieve Kronschnabel, the young lady in the front of the canoe, this week exchanged the leisurely existence which she has enjoyed for the last few weeks for the routine of class bells and teaching, as she began her duties as instructor in physical education at Roosevelt Junior High school. Her companion, Miss LaNore Morehouse, LaCrosse, will teach at Waukegan, Ill.

The two girls, both of whom attended summer school at LaCrosse State Teachers college this summer, went to Lake Itasca nearly a month ago and at that point started their canoe trek back to LaCrosse, a journey which ended last week. In the canoe shown above they glided down the river during the day time and slept at night, stopping along the shore to prepare their meals. Miss Kronschnabel is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Kronschnabel, 1002 N. Oneida street.

Accept CCC Outagamie County Applications

An average of 3 to 4 applications for CCC camps from Outagamie youths are being received daily at the old postoffice building. Miss Madlyn Newell, head of the central application bureau, said today. The October enrollment for the state is expected to be about 3,000 and though the exact quota for Outagamie county has not been set, Miss Newell said it would be about 20.

Eligibility requirements for enlisting have been changed to permit former campers to enroll six months after their discharge. The ruling barred them from reenlisting within the period of a year. Applications for reenlistment will be accepted if the youth has not served more than 18 months previously. Age limits are from 17 to 25 years.

Packers Open Pro Football League Race Sunday at Home

Cardinals First Opponents of the Herber-less Bays

Invaders to Show Gay Tinsley Who Figured in All-Star Scoring

GREEN BAY—Thirty strong, the Chicago Cardinals will invade Green Bay next weekend, primed to wipe out the memory of three games which they played with the Packers last season, and which failed to bring a victory. The Cards were whipped at City stadium, beaten at Milwaukee, and tied at Chicago in the three meetings of the National Professional Football league rivals.

This year the teams clash but twice. They meet at City stadium next Sunday afternoon in the first 1937 league encounter for both, and they collide at Milwaukee Sunday, Oct. 10.

Coach Milan Creighton, again at the helm of the Cardinals, will bring to Green Bay a squad studied with new material, the most promising of which is the great Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State end who scored the only touchdown of the 1937 All Star game against the Packers.

Tinsley, hailed as the greatest end in collegiate football last season, will make his pro league debut here next Sunday. At Soldier field last week he played practically flawless football, speared half a dozen of Sammy Baugh's bullet passes, and chased himself across the last chalk line for the touchdown that sent the Packers home with an unexpected defeat.

Heads Strong Group
Tinsley, a 195-pound, 6-foot-1 product of the Deep South, heads a powerful Cardinal end corps, which also includes Versil Deskin, Drake, 200 pounds; Mill Mueller, De Paul, 190; the veteran Bill Smith, Washington, 198; and Billy Wilson, Gonzaga, 185.

These wingmen will block ahead of the strongest group of backs Creighton has had to work with since he took over the Cardinal helm. Green Bay fans will remember the outstanding work last season of George Grosvenor, halfback of Colorado; Jim Lawrence, Texas Christian halfback; Hal Pangle, Oregon State fullback; Douglas Russell, Kansas State halfback; and Howard Tipton, U. S. C. half.

Added to these men, and spilling for a chance at the Packers, will be Arthur (Bill) Burch, Centenary half; Bill Crass, Louisiana State fullback and a former teammate of Tinsley; Stanley Halfey, Xavier half; Bill May, Louisiana State half; Rock Reed, Louisiana State halfback; and Pete Tyler, Hardin-Simmons half.

Backs Are Faster
The Cardinal backfield is rated much faster than the 1936 combination, and it includes a bunch of hustling youngsters who are breaking their noses to earn permanent berths in pro football.

The tackle lineup includes some veteran, seasoned material, in addition to strong replacements. Men who will be seen at that position Sunday are Conway Baker, Centenary, 225 pounds; Tony Blazine, Illinois Wesleyan, 230; Frank Bill, St. Mary's, 250; Hal Carlson, De Paul, 225; Milford Miller, Chadron Teachers, 220; Earl Nolan, Arizona, 205; Jack Robinson, Kirksville Teachers, 20.

Cardinal guards are the following: Ross Carter, Oregon, 200; Bree Cuppoletti, Oregon, 200; John Morrow, Nebraska State, 230; and Bill Volek, Tulsa, 215. Cuppoletti and Volek carried the brunt of the burden against the Packers last season, and they will be counted upon by Creighton to help swing a victory for the visitors next Sunday.

The centers are carried on the Cardinal squad. They are Leonard Duzan, Wichita, 220; Ham Harmon, Tulsa, 220; and John Reynolds, Baylor, 200.

Olympic Stars Enter Chicago Swim Tourney

Chicago—The backbone of America's last Olympic swimming forces, Jack Medina of Seattle, Wash., Adolph Kiefer, Chicago's powerful backstroke marvel, and Peter Fick of New York, will spend a share of the next three days in Lake Michigan seeking new National A. A. U. honors.

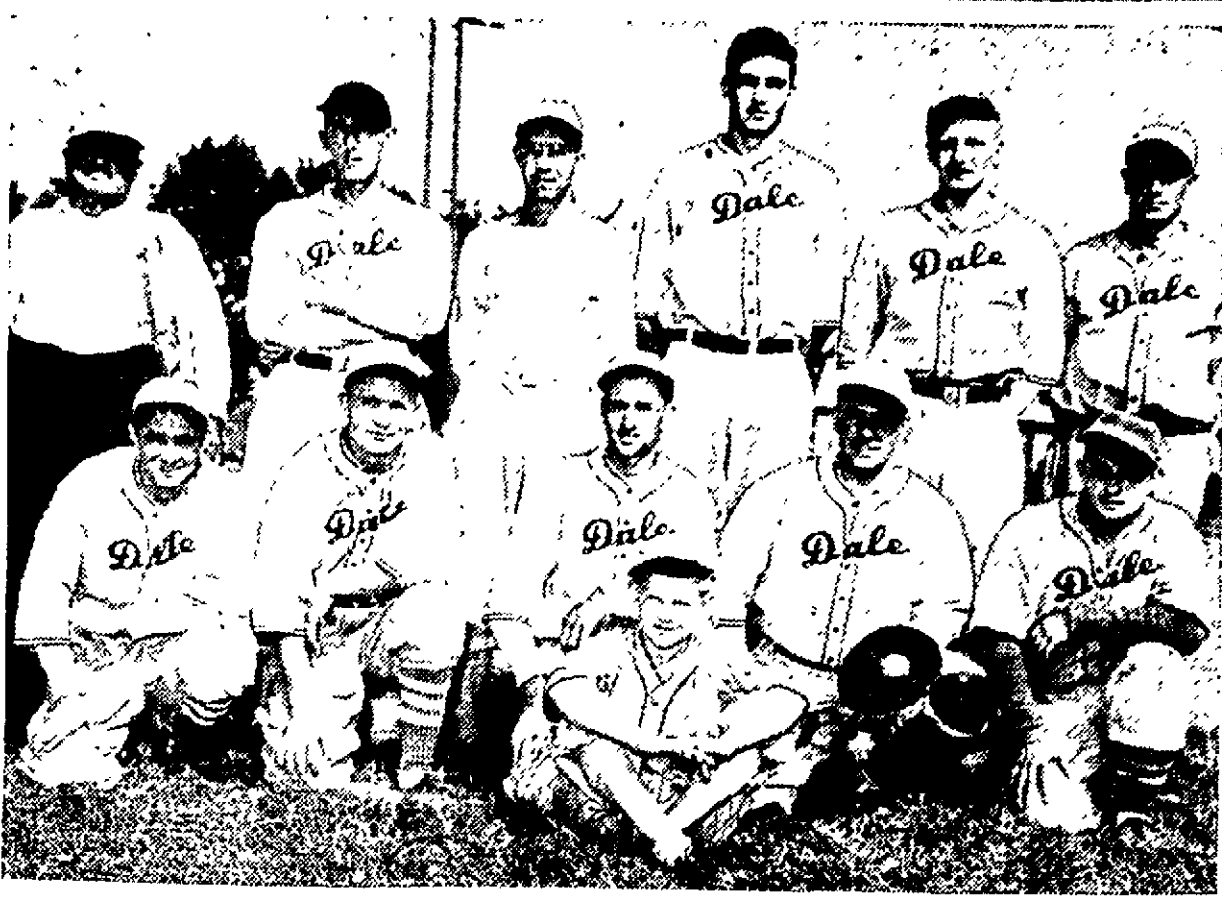

Medina, national champion in the middle distances for the past three years and victor in the Olympic 400 meters, will defend titles in the 220 and 440-yard events, and Fick will try for another 100-meter championship. Both appear to be certain of getting what they go after in the Burnham park lagoon in the Amateur Athletic union's fiftieth men's senior title meet, to be staged as part of Chicago's centennial charter jubilee.

Donald Greb Wins Golf Title at Clintonville

Clintonville—Donald Greb defeated Harold Heuer Monday to win the 1937 championship at Clintonville Riverside Golf club. In the first half of the 36-hole match played in the morning, Greb led Heuer five up. In the afternoon, the match ended on the twelfth hole when Greb was ahead 7 up and 6 to go. The 1936 championship was held by Bill Hurley.

LACROSSE BOXER BEATEN

Chicago—G. Phil Rosenberg, 148, of Chicago, scored a technical knockout over Pat Schoenberger, 148, of LaCrosse, Wis., in the second round of a scheduled four round boxing contest here last night.

DALE BASEBALL TEAM POINTING FOR COUNTY TITLE

Dale baseball team, above, is pointing for the Outagamie County league pennant although the route is rather devious at the moment. Dale and Shiocton tied for first round honors and will meet Sept. 18 in a playoff which Dale figures it will win. Then Dale will meet the second round winner, still unnamed, for the league bunting. The picture shows, standing, left to right, George Gorges, one of the loop's umpires, Albert Oelke, Gordon Cross, Dan Meshnick, Melvin Glocke and Orville Hauk; lower row, left to right, Les McHugh, Frank Tilly, Walter Kaufman, Milton Schultz, Lawrence Gilkey, manager, and Gale Bock, mascot. Kenosha Team Enters Finals of Tournament
Kenosha—The Ke-Nash-A Blue Streaks rallied in the ninth inning to score a 5 to 4 victory over the Heileman Brewers of La-Crosse and advance to the finals of a soft-ball tournament here last night.

Shiners of Kenosha county, eliminating the Sheboygan Chicken Farmers 4 to 1, in the other semi-final contest.

Ke-Nash-A held a 4 to 0 lead over La-Nash-A at the end of the sixth inning, but the Blue Streaks batted across four runs in the seventh and then scored the winning one run margin in the ninth.

DESERET AMATEURS

Chicago—Three outstanding women athletes deserted the amateur ranks today to cash in on their track and field prowess.

Byron Schuman, Chicago promoter, said Helen Stephens, Fulton, Mo.; Dee Boeckman, St. Louis, and Betty Robinson, Chicago, signed professional contracts with him.

Miss Stephens, world women's sprint champion, said their first enterprise would be a motion picture sports short.

One-Armed Outfielder of Shawano Loop Bats .475

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—The Louie Farr fight may wind up with an investigation, after all. A yellowed Broadway columnist wrote he timed the rounds (via radio) and the seventh ran three and a half minutes. He has been invited down town to tell his story to the Lewinsky commission.

The St. Louis Cardinals will turn on the axes next season. Ditto the Cardinals. Philadelphia is dickering for Louie Farr and Tony Galento late this month. California sports writers agree U. of California will have the top football team on the coast this season.

New Holstein Youth May Pitch in Major League

NEW HOLSTEIN—Billy Dumke, New Holstein's 17 year old mound marvel, may be pitching for the Boston Red Sox in another year or two as the result of a gentleman's agreement made with William Disch, scout for the American league.

The upshot of it all is that Milwaukee, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Boston, all angling for the services of Dumke, have failed to get "Dad" Dumke to sign on the dotted line.

Brewers Slated For Fourth Spot

Milwaukee Needs Two Victories for Playoff Position
Chicago—The Milwaukee Brewers probably will win their fourth spot in the American association playoffs, but they are having a little trouble making it official.

The Brewers, needing only two more victories to clinch the playoff position, ran into the Minneapolis Millers, who still entertain hopes of overhauling Columbus in the league title race, and took a 13 to 4 blistering. Kansas City, with a bare chance of catching Milwaukee, split a doubleheader with St. Paul, winning the opener, 4 to 1, and dropping the second game, 4 to 3.

Minneapolis, bouncing back after a sad experience with St. Paul, belted three Brewer hurlers for 21 hits, including four each by Stanley Spence and John Peacock, while Walter Taucher was holding the opposition to six safeties.

The victory failed to help the Millers in their pursuit of Columbus, for the Red Birds protected their first place margin by bunting their 11 hits off Jack Tising with five Louisville errors for an 11 to 4 decision.

Toledo last ground in the first place battle by sharing a doubleheader with Indianapolis. The Mud Hens got away to a rousing start, slamming out 20 hits for an 18 to 4 victory in the first game, but were held to seven hits in the 7-inning nightcap and lost, 9 to 4.

ST. MARY 20, PACIFIC COAST 13
Oakland, Calif.—Although St. Mary's is not a member of the Pacific coast conference, it abides by conference football rules. Since 1924, when the Galloping Gaels adopted this policy, they have won 20, lost 13 and tied four of 37 games with conference teams.

Farr and Manager Come To Parting of the Ways
New York—Tommy Farr, the Welsh heavyweight who gained his greatest fame by lasting 15 rounds with Joe Louis, will pursue his ring career in the future minus the advice of Ted Broadbribb, his English manager.

At odds for months, Farr and Broadbribb broke yesterday when Broadbribb turned over his managerial rights to Babe Culnan of Newark. In the new contract Broadbribb gets 25 per cent of Farr's earnings, but Culnan holds the power of attorney to act for Broadbribb and will receive half of Broadbribb's share.

Kaukauna at Green Bay.

GREEN BAY—The second half championship of the Northern State league will be decided here Wednesday night at Green Sox park when Manager Bob McClain's Bays tackle the Kaukauna Brewers, winners of the open class Wisconsin tournament play at Milwaukee.

The Bays and Kaws are tied for the top of the heap with six victories and three defeats. If the Sox win, a three-game playoff series with Kaukauna will be arranged for the pennant. Kaukauna won the first half race.

SOS From Kaukauna
This game was scheduled for Sunday night, but the Green Sox answered the "SOS" of the Kaukauna club for a pitcher in the final tourney game and Johnny Rowe hurled the Electric City club to a 5 to 3 victory over the Ryzekes of the Milwaukee Triple A loop.

The loan of Rowe to Kaukauna was a sporting gesture by the Green Sox and drew favorable comment all around the circuit.

Vice President Bernard Neumann, who is handling the Northern State league affairs during the sickness of Mayor Arthur Schuetz of Manitowoc, the president, said: "Green Bay's sportsmanship move has put the Northern State league at the peak of Wisconsin baseball."

Sees Larger Crowd
"The postponement of the game until Wednesday night should result in a larger crowd and I trust that fans from every city in the league will attend the game at Green Bay and pay tribute to two great ball clubs."

John Coppes, owner of the Kaukauna club, said: "Never in my 30-odd years of baseball have I ever seen a better example of league cooperation than when the Green Bay club loaned us Johnny Rowe for the title tournament game and then agreed to postpone the Northern State league contest from Sunday to Wednesday night."

McClain Sees Victory
Although the Green Sox haven't played a game since the win at Kimberly a week ago Sunday night, the squad has engaged in several practice sessions and Manager McClain thinks his Bays will come through with a win over the Kaws.

Johnny Rowe, as a rule, only needs about three days of rest, and he should be at peak form to turn back the team he pitched into a state championship.

Elmer Jacobs' lame ankle has been responding nicely to treatments, and the second sacker will be at his post in the Kaukauna game. Jacobs is hitting .304 and it was his timely single against Kimberly that turned defeat into victory.

All the other first stringers are reported fit for action and they will be ready to shoot the works when Umpires Jansen, Little Chute, and Hoeyman, Kimberly, call the game at 8:15 p. m.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

Looking Over The Sports Pages

KAUKAUNA baseball team, which seems to be playing under pressure almost every week, will invade Green Bay this evening for the final game of the Northern State league's second round. A win for the Brewers will give them first and second round and the season's honors and I wouldn't doubt but what they'd like to get the race over. A defeat for the Kaws will mean Green Bay wins the second round title and a playoff will be necessary.

The Brewers will go to the Bay totting their new title, state open division champions. And they'd better win behind Sonny Carvenough or a lot of Green Bay folks will toss nasty digs because the Brews used Johnny Rowe, Green Bay's crack hurler, in the final game at the state meet.

We saw about six innings of the title game at Milwaukee and would have remained for the other three if it hadn't been so doggone cold. However, the Brewers looked like winners when we shook off the icicles and left, so it didn't make any difference.

And Johnny Rowe pitched for the Brews just as he'd been with them for years. Even when something went wrong, Johnny would shake a warning finger at the Kaw infielder and then he'd go back to the mound and bear down. Dick Weisgerber also showed the old college try in behalf of his new squad when he'd dash over on the third base line and duck the coaching. Sonny Carvenough was the other coach.

A strong north wind blew into the park and balls that would have gone to outfielders came down in the shortstop's glove. The fast grass infield also bothered the Kaw infielders a bit, for they had to play rather deep and found it much different than on their own diamond. But at that, all of the boys came in for neat plays, considering everything and the fact they obviously were playing under pressure and weren't as loose as they might have been.

Heber Pelkey's first hit of the final game, a blow needed badly with Vils on second, was perfect. It was a line drive just over short and a hit in any league. And Icky Vandrasker continued to hit 'em hard, too. He almost put one out on Eighth street once, the left fielder taking the ball against the fence. It would have been a homer at Kaukauna.

Looks like this McKenny family is more than grabbing up the city's golf honors. Tommy and Pa McKenny won the Butte des Morts and son championship recently and Jimmy grabbed off the club title Monday. Wonder if Pa ever has to referee a verbal bout over whether Jimmy's better than Tommy?

Heber Pelkey turned in a couple 36's at Butte des Morts over the weekend but didn't cop any of the tournament honors because he wasn't entered. Incidentally, they say that Heber lost a tough match with Ralph McGowan in the club championship. With a chance to beat the defending champ, Pelkey dropped his ball into an unplayable lie on the 19th hole and picked up. Bet the grounds keeper heard about that.

Valley Irons drew in hard luck at that Sheboygan softball tournament when they picked the Allied Vans, Racine. The Vans won and went on to play in the finals of the meet. They lost to the Greenbaums in the title game.

Seymour cranked through in big league style against Bonduel and won the second round honors in the Land o' Lakes league. Now the northern team will meet Bonduel in a 3-game

CUBS BUY OUTFIELDER
Chicago—In an attempt to bolster their waning power, the Chicago Cubs today purchased Carl Reynolds, of the Minneapolis club, a hitting sensation of the American association, for immediate delivery. Reynolds, an outfielder, joined the Cubs today.

Remember Bob Hipke who played center at Lawrence back several years? He's a golfer now at North Hills club, Milwaukee, and last Sunday shot a 73 and paired with Billy Sixty to defeat a Watertown duo at Watertown.

John Brockslager was in Appleton Tuesday to pick up those golf clubs that disappeared at the Butte des Morts jamboree. John's caddy put them in the trunk of a car that wasn't John's and an S.O.S. went out for help. Several days later Bob Zaumeyer prepared to leave on a trip, opened the trunk of his car and there were John's clubs. Bob returned them to "Juicy" Griz "patrick" who got in touch with John.

That archery-golf contest featuring Everett Leonard, Butte des Morts pro, playing Eddie Thomas, Appleton archer, last Sunday at Butte des Morts, went to Thomas because, as Leonard said, "He didn't miss enough putts, and he never got off the fairway." The official golf score was 1 up for Thomas. He shot a 39 and Leonard a 40. Thomas was required to hit a target on the green while Leonard canned his putts as usual. Thomas used a bull bow which, for the uninitiated, is a large bow and while Leonard figured the archer would have trouble with it on the greens, Eddie fooled him.

High Grid Squad Increased to 50

Heavier Drills Scheduled For Terror Hopfuls This Week

With the opening of school yesterday Coach Wallace Cole's Appleton High school football squad was increased to more than 50 hopefuls and his coaching staff was augmented by Myron Seims, Marvin Babler, and Harvey Gygi as assistants. Babler and Gygi will take over the sophomores and all-Americans next week after the culling process takes place.

The Terrors started work last Wednesday and held drills twice daily until Saturday but were handicapped by the intense heat. Saturday's workout was a singleton.

With cooler breezes yesterday, a bit heavier work was indulged in and the linemen did a little blocking, there was a lengthy punting drill which featured linemen going down under boots as the safeties attempted to return the ball behind interference. A short signal practice also figured in the program.

Work the remainder of the week will just about follow Monday's schedule. Scrimmage will be banned until Friday or perhaps Saturday. The Terrors open their season on Saturday, Sept. 18, at St. Mary's, Menasha, and begin conference play the following week.

Two Bowling Loops Planning Meetings

Two bowling league meetings are scheduled at the Arcade alleys tomorrow night.
At 7:30 the ladies bowling league will meet to plan the season's program. Bowling is scheduled to start on Sept. 16. Pearl Horneke is president of the loop and Gladys Koerner is secretary. Women wishing to bowl and seeking places on teams can contact the two officers.
Also at 7:30 the Industrial Bowling league's team captains or managers will meet at the Arcade with league officers to approve the season's schedule and iron out other difficulties. The loop will start firing on Sept. 22.

Cubs Will Throw Party; Giants May Go Home in Barrel

Charlie Grimm's Men Pin World Series Hopes on 3-Game Series

BY DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Cubs are going to give the Giants a little party soon and, if the neighbors do their bit, the city slickers from Gotham will go home in a barrel.

Counting heavily on the aid and abetment of the Cards, Pirates and even the lowly Reds, Charlie Grimm's men see the 3-game series with the New Yorkers, starting Sept. 21 as their entire into the World series. It is their last chance. The gaudy lead of mid-summer has faded to a once and a half game deficit; the once matchless infield is stumbling.

The schedule shows nine more games for the Cubs with the Cards and, as they proved yesterday, the Mississippi Mudcats are the Chicagoans' cousins. That may help. But Boston and Pittsburgh are tough for the Cubs, and there's the inevitable series with the Giants.

Here's how the situation looked today:

	W. L. To Play
Giants	76 48 30
Cubs	75 52 27

Lee Wins Thirteenth
The Cubs showed signs of rebounding from their latest slump yesterday when Bill Lee staggered through to his thirteenth victory of the season, defeating the Cardinals 8-5. Phil Cavaretta pumped in four runs with a brace of doubles and a single. Phil was the boy shovled in at first base when Ripper Collins broke his ankle. Lee finished strongly, allowing one hit in the last five frames, a homer by Don Padgett.

The Cubs' front office added Carl Reynolds, former American leaguer, to the squad. Reynolds, a 33-year-old veteran of four American league clubs, has been hitting .338 with the Minneapolis Millers.

In the only other National league game, the Brooklyn Dodgers trimmed the Boston Bees 6-1 in the rubber game of a 3-game series. Cookie Lavagetto's homer was a big factor in the Dodger attack.

The once-proud Red Sox bowed twice to the Washington Senators 11-5 and 5-4 in the only American league games.

Linemen are Biggest Concern of Stuhldreher And His Coaching Staff

BY HARRY STUHLREHER
Wisconsin Football Coach
Written for the Associated Press
ADISON—(4)—Each fall everyone is anxious to know the football prospects at the state university. Questions are being put to us constantly regarding this all important matter.

To some our answers are disappointments. They expect the coaching staff to be optimistic and say there is nothing to it—the Wisconsin Football Team is all set.

I wish it were as easy as that. Naturally we are in on the ground floor. We should know what to expect. However, that is not the case.

Football is a peculiar game. When everything seems rosy, the opposite occurs. Victory depends on so many conditions that one never knows what to expect.

There is, however, a better feeling in our own minds. We have had a full year in preparation. The staff knows the boys and the boys have somewhat of an idea of what we want. That the squad is better acquainted with our style of play, there's no question. Last year, out of necessity, coaching methods were hastily applied. Thank goodness we need not have a duplication.

Need Speed
The primary requisite of our style of play is speed. It was noted in our spring play that we will have much more of that, and it is not confined to the backfield where there are some boys who should cut capers in the open field. The linemen as well have become imbued with swift movement. In all, it won't be the fastest team you'll see but, by comparison, it is tending in the right direction.

Wisconsin's shortcoming again will be in the line. We had thought for a while that we were to be exceptionally strong at the ends. Ineligibility took its toll in that department when we lost the veteran, Stan Haukedahl, and Ed Weigandt, a pretty fair freshman player, both from the same position.

By the same token our tackles did not measure up. Having graduated Captain John Golomgesko, Paul Jensen and Ed Christianson and with the dropping out of school of Bob Grinde, another tackle letterman, what could you expect?

But the young tackles have fooled us. What they lack in experience they have made up in desire. I feel that they will do a creditable job in filling this hole.

Center of Line Weak
The middle of the line, namely guards and center, is causing us concern. As a matter of fact, we are still in the experimental stage at these spots and only time will iron out the difficulty.

A great deal of any improvement we found during the course of last fall can be attributed to those two stalwart backfield men, Ed Janowski and Clarence Tommerson. Both have finished so that the present backfield crop has its work cut out for it.

I maintain that a big percentage of the football battle is desired on the part of the squad. This 1937 group has plenty of that, which is indeed encouraging.

The schedule in order of South Dakota State, Marquette, Chicago, Iowa, Pitt, Northwestern, Purdue and Minnesota doesn't give us much of a breathing space. As a matter of fact, we may not make much of an impression on it.

Despite that, this will definitely be a better team. How much better, I couldn't tell you from here. Let me assure you again this squad will play for keeps and have a lot of fun doing it. Come what may.

Buivid Offered Post As Murray's Assistant
Norfolk, Va.—(4)—Raymond (Buz) Buivid, Marquette university All-American, was offered a job as Frank Murray's backfield assistant with the University of Virginia football squad today.

Buivid told Virginia officials by telephone from Texas, where he played with the College All-Stars against the Chicago Bears, that he was interested in the offer. He added that he would prefer a college coaching position to professional football, but had a conference scheduled today in regard to another post. He promised to advise Murray tonight whether he would accept the appointment.

Racine Women Retain State Softball Title
Madison—(4)—The Racine Pugh Coals retained the state women's amateur softball championship last night by defeating the Milwaukee Carl's Markets, 5 to 0, at Breese Stevens field.

The Racine team scored three runs in the first and tallied again in the fifth and sixth while Dorothy Uhler shut out the Milwaukeeans with six hits.

The winners will compete in the midwest tournament at Chicago. Twelve teams played in the state contest.

Dr. Rector Takes Honors in "Ringer" Meet at Riverview
Dr. A. E. Rector, with a gross score of 66 and a net of 50, won first honors in the ringer score tournament staged at Riverview this summer, according to Jake Mathews, pro. Second honors went to A. R. Ellis with a 68 gross and 51 net.

The tournament started in May and each player was permitted to enter his lowest score for the year on each hole. Handicaps then were deducted to give the winning scores.

The scores follow:

Par	443	544	534-36
Rector	342	445	433-32
	443	544	534-36-66-18-50
Ellis	443	444	534-35
	442	444	533-33-66-17-51

Giants Seek to Avenge Pro Defeats by All-Star Teams
NEW YORK—(4)—Seeking success where two other professional football teams have failed this season, the New York gridiron Giants battle an Eastern All-Star College Eleven for the benefit of charity under the Polo Grounds' lights tonight.

Within the last week, the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears have bowed to college stars who studded the football fields of the country last year.

Tonight's game, the second for the benefit of the Herald Tribune Fresh Air fund, pits the best of the East, selection by Andy Kerr of Colgate, against a seasoned team sprinkled with youngsters in their debuts as pros. With cool weather predicted, some 40,000 fans are expected to witness the renewal of the series won by the Giants in mid-summer temperature last year.

Rely on Meyer
The wily Colgate mentor has built much of his attack around the passing ability of Monk Meyer. Army ace, and his reserve, Mickey Kobrosky, Trinity college ace.

Against the collectionists, the Giants will send a team wise in the ways of the gridiron. Only three members of the starting lineup will be rookies: Will Walls of Texas Christian and Jim Poole of Mississippi at ends and Terzan White of Alabama at guard.

Probable starting lineups:

Waupaca—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kostek of Milwaukee met with an automobile accident Monday when Mr. Kostek, who was driving, lost control of his car on a curve on Highway 119 west of Zittau in Winnebago county and rolled over two times.

The Kosteks were on their way to Minneapolis, but they have been forced to chance their plans since their car was completely demolished, and they were injured. They were brought to the City Hospital and Clive E. Edwards, M.D., and Gordon Niderer, also of Milwaukee, who passed soon after the accident occurred. Mrs. Kostek will be confined for this week with her right shoulder fractured, but Mr. Kostek returned to Milwaukee Tuesday morning in spite of a broken rib and scalp wound.

Buying of Steel Is Increasing in Volume Each Week

Production Holding Steady At Rate Prevailing In July, August

In spite of light buying production is holding fairly steadily at the excellent rate prevailing through late July and August. Producers apparently are not troubled at the small current volume of bookings and are actively seeking to clear their books of backlogs, which are heavy in some products, though light in others, says Steel.

Buying is increasing in volume each week, though the change is gradual. Some automotive tonnage has been booked, though not in the volume expected later. General demand shows some signs of increased needs by miscellaneous consumers. Export inquiry is being received for various types of steel but prices are not attractive in most instances and little is being booked.

The scrap market is weak in the face of absence of buying by tonnage consumers but negotiations for purchase of a large tonnage for export to Europe by the scrap buying cartel, offering a $2 advance over the last export purchase, are an element of strength if the business is closed.

83 Per Cent Capacity
Steel production last week held at 83 per cent of capacity, changes in rates at various centers being small and virtually canceling each other. Pittsburgh receded 0.4 points to 83 per cent, Chicago 0.5 point to 86, Cleveland dropped 1.5 points to 78, Birmingham 5 points to 91, Detroit 5 to 85, Cincinnati 4 to 89 and St. Louis 7 points to 77. Wheeling gained 1.5 points to 91, and New England 1.5 points to 70. No change was made at Youngstown, 73; Eastern Pennsylvania, 65; Buffalo, 86.

American Steel and Wire Co. has announced a quantity plan for sales of nails, staples, merchant wire, barbed and barless wire and woven wire fencing, superceding the jobber-dealer basis in use previously. A dealer and jobber functional allowance is made on goods purchased for resale and quantity deductions are provided. The purpose is stated to protect legitimate jobber-dealer interests.

Pig iron production in August broke all records since August, 1929. The daily rate was 118,676 tons, compared with 120,845 tons in August, 1929. The daily rate was 3.3 per cent greater than in July. Total tonnage in August was 3,616,854 tons, compared with 3,746,934 tons in August, 1929, a gain of 3.3 per cent over July. For eight months total production was 28,888,648 tons, an increase of 42.4 per cent over the corresponding period of 1936.

Ninth Concert of Summer Thursday At Kimberly Park

Kimberly—The ninth open air concert by the Community band, under the direction of Prof. M. J. Heynen of Green Bay, will be played in the park Thursday evening. The program will start at 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock. On this week's program the overture "Morning, Noon and Night" will be featured. The last outdoor concert will be held in the park within the next two weeks. The program: Checkered Flag, March, Jewell; Panorama, Overture, Barnhouse; A Night in June, Serenade, King; Anchors Aweigh.

March, Zimmermann; Superba, Overture, Dalbey; Knight of the Road, March, Huffer; New Colonial, March, Hall; Morning, Noon and Night, Suppe; Colebrated, Waltz, Verdi; War Correspondent, March, Holmes; The Star Spangled Banner.

The next safety program in connection with the safety contest at the mill will be held at the clubhouse Friday noon. At this gathering an individual and a departmental prize will be given to some employee who shall not have had to report to a doctor for care because of an off-duty or on-duty accident. Ten individual prizes also will be awarded to 10 employees who are present at the meeting.

The grade containing 18 per cent tungsten.

Shipments of iron ore from the Lake Superior region continue to break records. Total tonnage moved to Sept. 1 this year is 45,438,131 tons, compared with 43,717,787 tons in the corresponding period of 1929, the banner year. The August movement was 10,811,381 tons which compares with 10,806,967 tons in August, 1929, and with 10,704,457 in July of this year.

Continued shortening of automobile production as plants become idle for change of model is evident in the decline to 64,200 units last week. General Motors produced 26,600 cars, compared with 29,100 the previous week; Ford 26,000 unchanged; Chrysler 5,800 compared with 23,950 and all others 5,800, compared with 4,260.

Rails Uncertain
Uncertainty as to the fate of its request for higher rates and the outcome of arbitration on wages is holding the railroad industry back from committing itself for cars and rails. In August 1475 cars were contracted for domestic use. This brings the eight months total to 48,490 cars. This compares with 35,563 bought in the first eight months of 1936. Last year 23,450 were placed in December, indicating the probability of better business late in the year.

With quotations on steelmaking scrap largely nominal prices have weakened and are about $1 per ton lower at Pittsburgh and Chicago, while in the East they show better resistance. As a result the composite of steelmaking scrap declined 75 cents last week, to $19.75, wiping out practically all the gain made during August. The weakness of scrap has brought the iron and steel composite down 9 cents to $40.27. The finished steel composite is steady at $61.70.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" represents Walt Disney's first feature length cartoon venture but more than that his first venture into "realism." One of the characters will meet death, the first time this has happened in a Disney film.

The queen, who is the villainess, will die in a fall off a cliff. There will be nothing gory about it, of course, but Disney considers it rather a momentous step. In "Who Killed Cook Robin?" the robin wasn't really dead after all. But in "Snow White" built for suspense vivid enough to sustain a multi-reel feature, something had to be done about the mean old queen.

Idea From The Customers
Disney, the lean and wiry young chief of a studio where none of the actors are temperamental, is more enthusiastic about his first feature than about anything since he started putting his features in color.

"When people see a color cartoon feature," he says, "their imaginations will begin to work on the possibilities that lie in them. Already people have written in, suggesting subjects that could not possibly be done so well on the screen in any other medium. Many have suggested that we tackle the 'Odyssey' next, for instance."

Next, however, the Disney staff will undertake the story of a deer, "Bambi: A Life in the Forest." As with "Snow White," months of experimentation will pass before actual production begins. The problem is to "teach" the characters, got to know them so well that the artists regard them as real people rather than as drawings.

"It's funny how it works," chuckles Walt. "The boys got so fond of the seven dwarfs—each of the seven a distinct personality—that when they finally finished their roles in the picture the boys didn't want to let them go. Now they're hounding me to do another feature starring the dwarfs."

'Pigs' Opened New Field
It was "Three Little Pigs." Disney thinks, that opened up a new field of possibilities for his screen efforts. With "Pigs" the artists learned how to instill "personality" into their cartoon creations, and the phenomenal success of this short film indicated a future path along which "human" cartoon characters could follow.

Disney is spending approximately a million dollars on his feature—an expenditure that would not be possible in "shorts" because the returns would not justify it.

"Three Little Pigs" is a top money-maker among shorts, and its earnings have been estimated in excess of a million dollars—but not by Disney.

Fingerprints of 7 Million Persons In Government File

Work of Federal Bureau Outlined at Joint Meeting of Clubs

New London—Elmer Dobberstein, formerly of this city and now in the fingerprint division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C., explained his work of fingerprint classification and the general work of the department in a short talk before a joint meeting of the Lions and Rotary club at the Elwood hotel yesterday noon. Mr. and Mrs. Dobberstein are vacationing in New London.

In the department are filed some 7,500,000 finger prints of those who have run afoul of the law, not including the thousands of citizens' prints kept as a service in identifying victims of accidents and disasters. An accurate classification system makes it possible to identify a print in five to ten seconds, he said.

There are about 275 persons at work in his department and an average of 500 wanted persons are apprehended each month through the files. Many dangerous criminals are trapped through minor offenses when their print records are filed and compared, he pointed out.

Mr. Dobberstein secured his position about a year ago through a civil service examination and went through an intensive course of instruction and understudy work before he became an established employee.

The Lions and Rotary club each named a committee to work together and decide details of a golf tournament between the two clubs sometime next week. Dr. George Polzin, C. H. Kellogg and Leonard Cline represent the Lions and Tom Fitzgerald, Fay R. Smith and H. B. Cristy are on the Rotary committee. The group will meet as soon as possible to work out the joint program.

PARADE WINNER

New London—Here is happy 4-year-old Baker Dale Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, and his pet little dog, Barney, at the end of the Labor Day parade at New London Monday. Baker won the prize for his elaborately decorated tri-cycle and spectators were practically unanimous in acclaiming it the best decorated piece in the parade. It took all morning to trim the trike. Baker thought it a lot of fun peddling fast to keep up with automobile floats, but he found it harder to make a long grade uphill. It was a catastrophe when Barney fell out of his basket on the main street.

New London Minister Attends Conference

New London—The Rev. Ralph R. Holliday of this city attended last night's session of the ninety-first annual Wisconsin conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Appleton. Accompanying him was the Rev. Walter Holliday of the Hebrew parish near Ft. Atkinson. The Rev. and Mrs. Walter Holliday were guests at the Holliday home here since Monday.

Mrs. Carrie Hooper planned to attend the conference at Appleton today as official delegate to the layman's conference.

Council Accepts Coal for City Hall

$39.25 Damage Claim of Lyle McCully Allowed By Aldermen

New London—The bid of Gehrke Brothers Hardware for 60 to 70 tons of Pocahontas lump coal for the city hall was accepted by the common council at a regular meeting last night. The coal was offered at $9.84 a ton, untreated. It was the lowest bid from a local dealer. Four other bids were received.

A claim of $39.25 was allowed to Lyle McCully for damages to his motorcycle, his clothes and the cost of doctor bills when he was thrown from his machine on Dorr street recently. McCully claimed a defect in the road and after complete investigation City Attorney C. H. Putnam reported the city was responsible and recommended the claim be allowed. He reported the light and water department had dug a ditch in the road eight days before and the earth had settled, leaving a deep furrow in which McCully was thrown. The defect had not been reported to the street department and the city attorney suggested better cooperation between the two departments to prevent future responsibilities.

Referred To Attorney
A claim of $515 was filed by Miss Amelia Rasmussen for losses due to a broken arm and other injuries suffered when she tripped on a curb pipe and fell July 27. The claim was referred to the city attorney for investigation.

Carter-Hanson studio was allowed a refund of $24.30 for over-assessments of taxes in 1936. The taxes were paid under protest. A. R. Margraff of the finance committee recommended payment after a reduction from the $81 refund originally asked.

The city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance setting a speed limit in the Hatten Memorial park and a stop sign was authorized at the corner of Washington and Oshkosh streets leading to the park.

Emil Sohrweide, Manitowoc, and Ralph Buolow were granted a tavern operator's license and William Sohrweide, Jr., was granted a Class B tavern license. The latter will take over the place formerly occupied by George Popke on North Water street.
